DEMOCRATS IN MOOD TO KEEP UP VOTE WAR

Effort to Wipe Out Deficit Gives Party Strong Chance for Unity

ROOSEVELT NOW CHIEF
Leaders Expect Smith Faction to Keep Control Until Next Election

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—For a defeated party there is more life among the Democrats than would normally be expected. Talk of 1932 is constant, talk of girding for further warfare, keen preparation for the work that an opposition party tries to do when out of power.

The head and shoulders of the organization, of course is Governor Roosevelt of New York, with former Governor Al Smith at his side. The effort now is to wipe out the $1,500,000 deficit, but there are those who think it is a rare piece of fortune that the Democrats have a deficit to talk about and keep them in fighting mood.

Control of the party is still in the hands of friends of former Governor Smith. The forthcoming retirement of Representative Box of Texas as minority whip, an effort to produce harmony is significant of the trend. The first purpose will be to erase the deficit and then it may be expected that the friends of Mr. Smith will retain their control of party machinery until the convention of 1932. At the moment the expectation is that the mantle of leadership may fall on Governor Roosevelt himself, though, to be sure he must face the New York voters again in 1930 and there are other democrats who may come into prominence by that time.

SO FAR AS PARTY CONTROL IS CONCERNED, Mr. Smith's speech appealing for funds is designed to keep together the many millions of voters who cast their ballots for the Democratic nominee. The shifting of a few popular votes next time, it is reasoned, might alter the whole electoral vote. Nor is there any feeling of complicity in the Republican ranks. The victorious party is even this early looking to its fences in the hope of keeping the party intact for 1932. If the last campaign was the most expensive, it begins to look as if the interim between 1928 and 1932 will be relatively more expensive than preceding four years periods.

The conviction is growing that much money can be saved during campaigns if the proper preparation is made. Until now campaigns haven't begun even after the nominations have been made but only after speeches of acceptance have been delivered.

The Republicans will know long before 1932 whether Mr. Hoover is to be their nominee for reelection. The Democrats, therefore, will endeavor to perfect their organization similarly before the conventions are held. Again, it may be remarked, the defeated party seems to think the presidency well worth going after and is starting four years in advance.

Investigate Death Of Marion Man SENATE CONFIRMS ROY WEST

Zimmerman Says Points In Message Were His

Madison—(AP)—Many suggestions made by Governor Walter J. Kohler in his message to the 1929 legislature were contained in the 1927 message, former Governor Fred R. Zimmerman said in a statement Monday. The similar proposals mentioned include consolidation of the departments of markets, dairy and food, and agriculture; replacement of the board of public affairs by a budget director responsible to the governor; and a full-time salaried highway commissioner.

The new executive, in his message, "agreed that the general purpose of the much discussed tax law was right," Zimmerman declared.

He pointed out that while recommending some changes in the income tax law, Governor Kohler said "the taxing of incomes is a proper means of providing funds for government operation."

The identical thought on the impossibility of reducing taxation without reducing expenditures is illustrated by the former governor by quotations from each message. Zimmerman's address said: "There is no way of permanently reducing taxation except by curtailing public expenditures." Kohler's said: "A real reduction in taxes is impossible unless there is a reduction in expenditures."

Mr. Zimmerman declared that he too had pointed out the danger of appointing legislators to state offices, as did Governor Kohler in his legislative message.

Both messages dealt on the issue of justice of hold a governor responsible for legislative appropriations over which the only control he has lies in the power of veto. Kohler said: "The governor has little influence over appropriations except the power to veto them. Under the present plan he cannot justifiably be held responsible." Two years ago, Zimmerman said, "It is impossible now for the executive to veto appropriations to carry on Departments without vetoing the entire appropriation."

The new executive, Mr. Zimmerman said, indicated the conservation law, the school equalization law passed by the 1927 legislature and "agreed that the general purpose of the much discussed income tax law was right."

Both measures emphasized the need of a business administration. Zimmerman's said: "Whenever departments can be consolidated to eliminate duplications in public service, it should be effected. Economy does not mean to spend less, but to spend wisely, be the amount small or great. There has been long continued and insistent demand for economy in the administration of public affairs."

"Governor Kohler said: 'If the state as a business organization is badly and wastefully managed, it is unlikely to accomplish satisfactorily any of its purposes. If, on the other hand, it is well and efficiently administered, the people will get the things they are paying for.'"

The recommendation of Governor Kohler for a three-man full time salaried highway commission, was embodied, Mr. Zimmerman said, in a bill which the 1927 senate killed 19 to 9.

Madison—(AP)—John W. Reynolds, attorney general, will announce his decision this week on appointment of a special counsel who might start ouster proceedings under the corrupt practices act against Governor Kohler.

If the attorney general believes constitutional requirements for qualification as governor are the only ones binding and that the law cannot impose more than the constitution, he may decide against the appointment of the special counsel.

Reliable, but unquotable sources, revealed that when the first petition alleging excessive expenditures in the primary election was filed before the general election, Mr. Reynolds was of the opinion that there was sufficient evidence to appoint a special prosecutor, but that the wording of the corrupt practices act prohibited this appointment until after the alleged offender had qualified for office.

GETS OFFICE AFTER FIGHT; VOTE 54 TO 27

Norris, Nye and Blaine Fight Confirmation of Chicago Man

Washington—(AP)—Roy O. West of Chicago, was confirmed Monday by the senate as secretary of interior.

Confirmation followed three days of senate discussion of executive session. Opposition to the nominee was voiced by Republican Independents who complained particularly of Mr. West's former holding of stock in the Samuel Insull utility interests.

The attack on West was led by Chairman Nye, of the lands committee, which recommended his confirmation by a vote of 54 to 27, along with Senator Norris of Nebraska.

Senators Denen and Glenn, Republicans, of Illinois, defended the cabinet officer, joined by several Democrats.

The vote for West was 54 to 27 the senate then took a vote to determine whether the roll call on confirmation should be made public.

The senate heard Senator Blaine, Republican of Wisconsin, resume the attack on the nominee.

Liner Hits Rocks; 81 Are Saved

150 Officers and Crew Members Remain Aboard Grounded Vessel

New York—(AP)—Her 81 passengers transferred to another ship, the Dollar liner President Garfield was hard aground Monday on a coral reef in the Bahama Islands.

The passengers, with their baggage and the ship's mail cargo, were taken by the Pan-American to be landed at Nassau, Bahama Islands, Monday.

The Pan-America went to the assistance of the President Garfield when the ship sent out an SOS call at 7:25 Sunday morning. The distress call was followed by wireless messages saying the Dollar liner was aground on the Matanilla reefs at the northern tip of the Bahama Islands.

Announcement of the safe transfer of the passengers 12 hours later was made by Robert E. Duft, operating manager of the Dollar line here. He said the officers and crew of the President Garfield, numbering 150, had remained aboard their ship, which was not taking water and was in no immediate danger.

When the SOS was received a naval tug put out from Charleston, and the wrecking tug Warbler was sent from Jacksonville, Fla. Upon receiving word the passengers were safe, the navy department recalled its rescue craft. The wrecking tug continued to the aid of the stranded ship.

Last Minute Bulletins

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Reassembling this week after a long recess, the state legislature found the shoddy opposition to the administration of the state income tax plan had burst into flame. Charles J. Leland, former secretary of state and a member of the state administrative board, now a member of the house, issued a statement declaring there is no need for special taxes. He contended that money can be raised for institutional improvements by direct property taxes without overburdening the taxpayers. Leland would slash several items in Governor Green's budget appropriation bill, which would set the property tax to around $17,800,000 a year for "regular" purposes.

Washington—(AP)—Reiterating his disapproval of the proposed additional $25,000,000 for prohibition enforcement, Secretary Mellon Monday advised Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, his chicken ranch near Riverside,

JAWORSKI EXECUTED IN PENNSYLVANIA

Notorious Bandit Chief Goes to Chair, Followed by Another Slayer

Rockview Prison, Bellefonte, Pa.—(AP)—Jaworski, notorious bandit chief and killer, Monday paid with his life for the part he admitted playing in the death of seven men. He died as he had lived, a man without religion, going to the electric chair here unattended except by two guards.

Directly after Jaworski had been pronounced dead, Calvin D. James, of Upper Darby, was strapped in the chair and paid the toll for having killed a Doylestown bootlegger. Jaworski was declared dead at 7:06. James was officially dead at 7:14.

Jaworski, supported by two guards, entered the death chamber at exactly 7 o'clock. He appeared to be a daze. The arrogant attitude he had steadfastly maintained was gone. His faltering step, produced by a paralyzed leg. The result of police bullets, caused him to be supported.

As he stepped up to the chair he stumbled on the foot electrode. The guards prevented his falling and he was seated in the chair of death. Three men, including the executioner, strapped him in. Then the executioner stepped directly behind the chair, took a last glance at the killer and threw the switch.

Paul Jaworski was a notorious bandit leader and confessed killer of seven men. In his younger days he was known as Paul Pallas, a church choir singer.

He was leader of the Flathead mob of payroll robbers of the Pittsburgh district. At one time his gang mind a highway and blew an armored payroll car from the road. The mob specialized in payroll robberies and during one of these Jaworski killed a guard. For that crime he was sentenced to death.

BLOODY NOSE INDICATES HE WAS IN FIGHT

Body of Logan Strong Is Found on Highway Saturday by 2 Farmhands

Justice of the Peace Albert Gruenert of Marion, will conduct an inquest at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon over the body of Logan Strong, 29, which was found on a road about one and a half miles east of Marion at about 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

Although county authorities were reticent about expressing opinions and making public any clues in their possession, a statement from the sheriff's office indicated that Strong died after a struggle.

Strong's nose had been bleeding and a bottle of liquor, supposedly whisky, was found when the body was discovered by Arnold Tew and Art Hoppe, who were returning from Marion to do their farm chores. The two, who work on the same farm, were walking home because the road was blocked to vehicles by snow. Indications were that Strong died within the hour after midnight.

When found, eliminating the theory that Strong was frozen to death. The body was to be analyzed at Madison Monday to determine its alcoholic content and whether it contains poison.

Sheriff Art Steenbeck and Under-sheriff James O. Hanson of Waupaca, conducted an investigation after their arrival at 5:30 Saturday morning at the place where the body was found.

Justice of the Peace Gruenert has announced the following as the jury who will conduct the investigation Wednesday afternoon to determine how Strong died: Ed Bertram, Orville Brewer, W. E. Wink, Leslie Noveck, H. G. Meyer, and Richard Below, all of Marion. Waupaca has no coroner.

Strong survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Strong and a brother, Grover, at Marion, and another brother, Arthur, at Birmamwood.

MARSHAL FOCH WELL ON HIS WAY TO RECOVERY

Paris—(AP)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch was so much better Monday that his doctors permitted him to get out of bed and sit in an arm chair for a few minutes. He was also allowed to read some messages which have arrived from various parts of the world during the last week.

The ban on visitors to the sick room, however, was not lifted by the doctors, despite the marshal's requests to see General Weysand. The doctors said their patient's strength was increasing daily and his appetite was apparently growing with each successive meal. His spirits have never once been depressed during his entire illness.

The fact that the marshal was allowed to leave his bed for a few minutes seemed to indicate that he was on the road to recovery, especially since each consecutive bulletin for seven days has recorded progress. Concern over his condition, however, will continue to persist until the doctors are able to say with confidence that the patient has reached the stage of recuperation.

DISMISS WRIT TO BAR VILLAGE TAX PAYMENT

Eagle River—(AP)—Dismissal of an injunction obtained by taxpayers to prevent the village from levying or collecting any tax whatsoever for 1928 has resulted in tax money pouring into the village treasury.

Eagle River said its municipal power plant last year for about $250,000. After indebtedness had been paid, about $200,000 remained in the treasury. When the budget was prepared no municipal tax was assessed.

Some taxpayers, however, believed that not only should be believed of the village tax but that the village treasury should pay their school, county and state taxes, as well. This resulted in the restraining order.

Judge A. H. Reid sustained a demurrer by the village at a special term of circuit court and dissolved the injunction.

WISCONSIN MAN DIES IN MINNEAPOLIS FIRE

HIGH COURT DISMISSES APPEAL BY OSHKOSH MAN

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The appeal of J. Earl Morgan, Oshkosh, challenging the validity of an additional tax of approximately $150,000 imposed by the state of Wisconsin on his income in 1927, was dismissed in supreme court Monday for want of jurisdiction.

The court stated it would later announce whether questions raised should be considered at the discretion of the court. Morgan contended that the additional tax was invalid because it was levied on dividends received by him from the Morgan company, paid in the form of stock of subsidiary companies.

Stamp Out Revolt In Guatemala

Washington—(AP)—Complete suppression of the revolution in Guatemala was reported to the legislature here Monday by President Chacon.

Official announcement was made that the cities of Quetzaltenango and Realutele, taken over by rebel forces last week, were recaptured by government troops Monday without fighting.

Rebels in the northern part of Guatemala handed over their arms after their leaders had fled before an advance by loyal troops.

The cities of Quetzaltenango and Totonicapan were negotiating for the surrender of the rebel leader, Marcial Casado, who released the forces under his command.

The government was announced to be dominating the situation with the republic rapidly returning to normal.

Advices from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, said that unconfirmed reports there were that five Guatemalan departments in the western sector were in revolt with General Fernando Morales leading the insurgents. This Minister Reinos denied.

HARSH ATTORNEYS TO ASK NEW TRIAL

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—Attorneys for George R. Harsh, Milwaukee youth and condemned slayer of a drug clerk in a holdup, Monday set about preparation of a motion for a new trial while the former colleague sat in Fulton county jail, apparently indifferent to his fate.

The only outward sign of emotion on the part of the former Oglethorpe university student since his arrest shortly after the holdup last Oct. 16, came Saturday when Judge E. B. Thomas in Fulton Superior court pronounced sentence of death in the electric chair and set date of execution for March 15. Then Harsh, erect, bald slightly wavy, thin, pale, and facial muscles, twitched slightly as he clenched his jaws.

Harsh 8 days received no callers and deported himself much as he has since incarceration. Members of his family, remained in seclusion. His mother, Mrs. George R. Harsh, Sr., of Milwaukee, a sister, Mrs. J. S. Dikoway, Atlanta society matron, and William A. Harsh, a brother, of Milwaukee, sat with Harsh throughout his trial.

Attorneys did not indicate what would be the basis of their motion for a new trial.

HOOPER PARTY ON TRIP TO FLORIDA

Washington—(AP)—President-Elect Hoover left Monday morning for Florida, where he will remain until his return here for the March 4 inauguration. Mr. Hoover is going to Belle Isle, near Miami, where he will reside at the J. C. Penney estate. His special train is scheduled to reach Miami Tuesday afternoon. No ceremony was arranged to accompany the departure, but a small crowd had gathered at union station to see Mr. and Mrs. Hoover board their train.

Although he has completed since his return from South America a two week study of the question of his administration, Mr. Hoover has another task in preparation to his inauguration office as the nation's chief executive—the writing of the inaugural address. While he is understood to have drafted most of its major points, this speech's preparation probably will occupy much of his time during the Florida trip.

The Hoovers will be welcomed upon their arrival at Miami by Governor Dixie and other state officials who also will accompany them to the Penney estate.

The president-elect's party included Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National committee, who will accompany him to Florida; Miss Janet Larré of Los Angeles, a niece, and Lawrence Hubert, his personal assistant, and Miss Ruby. James Francis Burke of Pittsburgh, general counsel of the national committee in the campaign, also was invited to make the journey. But will stop off at Palm Beach to spend a few weeks there. ## RAIDS FOLLOW HEAVY CRIME WAVE IN CITY

4,000 Policemen Kept on Double Duty Over Sunday During Raids

UNDERWORLD IS COMBED

Police Patrols Work Over-time — Barred Doors Yield Under Ax Blows

Chicago—(AP)—Three thousand persons were arrested between Saturday night and Monday's dawn in one of the most sudden, widespread and successful police drives in the history of Chicago.

Raiders were conducted against every known habitat of the gangster, rumrunner and gambler. Where doors were locked, they were smashed open. The theatre district swarmed with plainclothes men, seeking the "dress suit" crooks and police patrols were backed for hours ahead, so swift were the arrests.

The drive was Police Chief William Russell's answer to a week of crime marked by 102 robberies in which four persons were shot dead and several others seriously wounded.

Two-thirds of the city's force of 6,000 policemen were kept on double duty over Sunday to insure the success of the drive.

Squad leaders got their orders from Deputy Commissioner John Stege in these words:

"Every joint in this town is to be visited. Never mind injunctions. If you're barred, grab an ax and chop your way in."

"Grab every crook with a record that you see. Don't bother seizing booze. Leave the working man and his respectable people alone. Raid the night clubs, the theatres, the hotels, the beer flats. I want every crook in Chicago in a cell by Monday morning."

Besides the raids, police had random squads at work everywhere, making arrests at street corners, anywhere they might come upon persons with police records or who were unable to give satisfactory accounts of themselves.

With every police district in the city participating, arrests were made by the hundreds every hour. In many cases officers and their prisoners waited for hours on the street before the arrival of a patrol to transport them to the police station.

Winnebago-Co Players Win Amateur Play Contest

BADGER SCHOOL PLACES SECOND IN DRAMA TILT

Winners Eligible to Compete in Contest for State Championship

With a state championship at stake, three home talent groups put their best foot forward at Roosevelt junior high school Saturday afternoon and competed for inter-county honors in the home talent tournament sponsored by the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

First place was awarded to Winnebago-co, with its contribution, "A Cup of Tea," by four members of the Algoma Community Club. Second honors went to the Outagamie-co play, "1950," presented by the Badger Parent-Teachers association. Wau-paca-co's offering, "Mrs. Stubbin's Boog Agent," by members of the Peterson's Mill Community club, failed to place.

The judge, Miss Lucille Welly, Warren Beck and Rex Mitchell, all of Lawrence college, awarded first place to the Winnebago play, because it represented a more superior type of acting and because the choice of play was better than the other two. The acting of Jane, wife of the poet, impersonated by Mrs. J. Washburn, was particularly outstanding, combining cleverness and heavy acting in a manner that kept the play moving at the speed necessary for a melodramatic production of this type. The plot of the play dealt with the efforts of John Waring, played by Chester Mittig, to murder the poet, Wilfred Wendall, represented by Ralph Koeller, for having had the audacious courage to write sonnets to his wife, Azalea Waring, a lady of artistic yearnings played by Marian Jones. Jane, the poet's wife, frustrates all Waring's attempts by making a tea party out of the impending murder scene, making it impossible for Waring to flourish both a gun and a tea cup at the same time.

The Badger play was done entirely in past and both male and female roles were carried by ladies. The acting honors in this play went to Miss Ruth Schroeder as Mr. Perkins, though the other characters also carried their parts with a great deal of finish. The plot centers around the relative positions of men and women in the year 1950 if the progress of women continues at the pace it now is going. All mental tasks in the household, washing dishes, darning and cleaning, are done by Mr. Perkins and his son, Pete Perkins, played by Miss Esther Abbitz and Mrs. Perkins, represented by Miss Lucille Abbitz and her daughter Hilda, impersonated by Miss Hildegarde Klein, eat the breakfast prepared by the men and then dash off to work.

Despite the fact that the influenza and bad roads had made it impossible for the Badger people to start their practicing as early as the other casts, Outagamie-co made a creditable showing in the contest. Late in starting, they were able to hold only three practices before the county contest, held at Kaukauna last week and no practices between the county and inter-county meets. This seriously interfered with their production, particularly as a play of the pantomime type depends so strongly on polished acting.

The third play, "Mrs. Stubbin's Boog Agent," depicted the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. David Stubbin, played by Oscar Peterson and Miss Winifred Grenlie, to assist Miss Amelia Marryme, a sentimental love sick old maid played by Mrs. K. M. Sannes, to capture Deacon Wheezy, a widower with matrimonial intentions, impersonated by A. C. Trindrud. Orin Emerson as Peleg G. Gelep, a book agent, complicates the plot with his attempts to sell his book, "From Childhood to the Grave." The play a great deal of the slap-stick comedy element in it and the weakness of the play itself made it difficult for the actors to display their dramatic ability.

A. G. Meating superintendent of county schools, presided at the meeting, and O. E. Lindstrom, director of the college of agriculture play activities briefly told the audience the purpose of the contest and the plans for future tournament.

The winner of the contest on Saturday will enter the district contest at Fond du Lac on Jan. 28, and the winner of first honors in this contest will compete in the final tournament at Madison on Feb. 8.

Mr. Meating in a statement made after the completion of the contest said that next year he hoped to be able to stimulate enough interest in the project to make it possible to have a town, district and county contests early enough in the year so that drifted roads and winter illness would not interfere with the necessary period of coaching. He also said that next year every Parent-Teachers association in Outagamie-co would be urged to choose and perhaps work on a play for the fall contest before school closed in the spring.

TWO MEN CONFESS ATTACKING GIRL

Police Investigate Statement That One Was Murderer of Graef Girl

Milwaukee—(P)—Two married men are under arrest and have made complete confessions, according to police, of making vicious attacks on a 19-year-old girl on the night of Jan. 12, it was revealed Sunday. Conviction of the charge to be filed carries a 20-year prison sentence.

The two suspects are Joseph Fless, 39, and Edward VanDrese, 26, both of this city. Fless is alleged to have told the girl that VanDrese "is the man who killed Lillian Graef," but both prisoners have denied any connection with the unsolved murder case in which Lillian was slain late in 1927.

Fless and VanDrese met the young woman, who was victimized and her girl friend at a downtown dance hall, the girl declared. The men invited the girls to ride home with them and the girls agreed. One of the girls was taken home without being molested.

On the return trip, Fless told the second girl that "you are going to stay with us all night," the girl told police. They drove along and Fless, she said, choked and attacked her. She was beaten. When she started to scream the men warned her that they had a pistol. Later, Fless took the wheel and VanDrese attacked her, she said. Then she was thrown out in front of her home.

Not until Saturday was the girl able to accompany detectives to the ball room where she pointed out Fless as one of her assailants. In his ensuing confession, Fless named VanDrese as his companion on the ride.

Police are making a search for the third man, who was seen with the girls at the dance hall.

The third play, "Mrs. Stubbin's Boog Agent," depicted the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. David Stubbin, played by Oscar Peterson and Miss Winifred Grenlie, to assist Miss Amelia Marryme, a sentimental love sick old maid played by Mrs. K. The play a great deal of the slap-stick comedy element in it and the weakness of the play itself made it difficult for the actors to display their dramatic ability.

A. G. Meating superintendent of county schools, presided at the meeting, and O. E. Lindstrom, director of the college of agriculture play activities briefly told the audience the purpose of the contest and the plans for future tournament.

The winner of the contest on Saturday will enter the district contest at Fond du Lac on Jan. 28, and the winner of first honors in this contest will compete in the final tournament at Madison on Feb. 8.

Mr. Meating in a statement made after the completion of the contest said that next year he hoped to be able to stimulate enough interest in the project to make it possible to have a town, district and county contests early enough in the year so that drifted roads and winter illness would not interfere with the necessary period of coaching. He also said that next year every Parent-Teachers association in Outagamie-co would be urged to choose and perhaps work on a play for the fall contest before school closed in the spring.

DEATH TAKES FORMER H. S. ATHLETIC COACH

Word has been received at Appleton high school of the death of Dana Clark Bailey, historic instructor at the school about 1908 on January 12. Mr. Bailey coached the basketball team that won the state championship in that year. In 1911 he became a member of the faculty of the Lions Township high school at La Grange, Ill., where he taught for seventeen years. Last year he became head of the special science department of the Elkhart Preparatory school in New York. Mr. Bailey is author of the book "A New Approach to American History," and was widely known in the educational world as an unusual authority on American History.

finesse and diction of a seasoned actor. The picture also presents the Quillan family of vaudeville renown.

Before Emil Jannings goes back to Europe (if he goes), sent by the talkies (if he is sent) he will make one more starring film in America, "A Tale of the Alps." Jannings breaks up his English into infinitesimal particles, and directors say talkies cannot be found for him. Esther Halston and Gary Cooper heard the German's cast in this yodeling film. Ann Brady is in it, too.

Ping-Pong is the newest fad in Hollywood. The mangled sport of old bicycle days is the piece de resistance at many parties given lately by stars. Bille Dove has gone in for it, as have a number of others. Bille and Rod LaRoque, her leading man in "The Man and the Moment," which she is filming now, can be seen playing it all over the place. Oh, well!

"Why, we're just good friends, that's all."

Thus doth Georgia Hale dismiss the gossip of a new romance in Hollywood, in which her name is linked with your friend Charles Chaplin's.

Georgia played a role in Chaplin's "The Gold Rush," and they've been together here and there quite a lot lately. If Georgia and Charlie were to be married, of course she'd say so right out loud.

HAUL 125 CARLOADS OF SNOW FROM YARDS

Shippers Help Railroad Company Clear Tracks so Traffic Could Move

Approximately 125 cars of snow were removed from the Chicago and Northwestern freight yards during the past week, according to W. W. Frandenburg, local yardmaster. The snow blanketed the freight yards and caused considerable difficulty to local railroad men.

Most of the snow was removed by Friday afternoon with the aid of local shippers who sent help. Most of the ice and snow was carried to the Ashland division of the railroad company and was then dumped in the Fox river near the Riverside Fibre and Paper company plant, according to Mr. Frandenburg. Joseph Schultz, local yard foreman, supervised the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lesser of Joliet, Ill., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jacobson, 315 N. Oneida-st. Mrs. Lesser formerly was Miss Frances Jacobson of this city.

APPROPRIATION OF $150,000 SOUGHT FOR PARK AT CLIFF

Assemblyman O. J. Schmiede and Senator M. F. White Working on Bill

An appropriation of $150,000 for purchase of more than 500 acres of land at High Cliff for a state park is provided in a legislative bill being prepared by Assemblyman Oscar J. Schmiede and Sen. M. F. White of the nineteenth senatorial district.

The bill also would delegate to the conservation commission power to complete the transaction.

Approximately 525 acres of land, including about 150 acres on top of the cliff, with a lake frontage of about 1,000 feet, would compose the park, according to Assemblyman Schmiede.

Option on 460 acres already has been secured by J. H. Dennhardt, former Neenah mayor, and George J. Mayer, also of Neenah. The proposal also has the backing of P. J. Sensesbrenner, Neenah, president of the Kimberly-Clark Co.

An attempt to convert the High Cliff property into a state park has been underway for the last five or six years, Mr. Dennhardt having secured an option on the land as long as six years. He was unable to arouse enough interest in the project at that time, however.

High Cliff is considered by nature lovers one of the beauty spots of the state. Rising to a height of 300 feet, the cliff provides a panorama which takes in a beautiful, level farm country below, Lake Winnebago directly ahead, and the northern shore of the lake toward the right.

The site is known for its beautiful view of sunsets. The picture of the sun sinking below the western horizon, casting its crimson glow over the quiet waters of the lake, and forming huge shadows here and there over the farm country below the cliff, is one never to be forgotten by those who have witnessed it. It is pointed out by backers of the park movement.

With private individuals rapidly acquiring ownership to lake shore property, the park would give residents in this section of the state 1,000 feet of lake frontage which they could still enjoy. Not only would

Y BASKETBALL MEN TO HAVE MEETING

Representatives of basketball teams participating in the Industrial Y. M. C. A. league will meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 Monday evening to discuss plans for the season and half of the tournament. Several new players are to be considered, and rules of the game will be discussed, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director.

WRECKAGE CLEARED AFTER DERAILMENT

Trains Again Arriving Here According to Regular Schedule

Chicago and Northwestern trains were again running near schedule Sunday morning, after wrecking crews from Green Bay and Milwaukee had cleared the right of way of the debris of smashed express cars when 14 cars of express train number 126 was derailed about a quarter mile south of Kewaskum, according to W. B. Basing, local agent.

Passenger trains were arriving here from 60 to 90 minutes late Saturday, because it was necessary to reroute trains by way of Fond du Lac and Clyman Junction, which took regular trains approximately 90 miles off their regular course.

Hundreds of gallons of milk and cream were spilled over the railroad right of way as seven cars tele-scoped. Two of the cars plunged into the Milwaukee river, two cars went down the east side of a 20 foot embankment, and four others tumbled down the west side. The extent of damage done to the cars has not been estimated, according to Mr. Basing.

The derailment is believed to have been caused by a loose part of one of the first cars on the train. Approximately 3,000 feet of track was ripped from the road bed, and one of the cars crashed into a telephone and telegraph pole and brought them to the ground, shutting off communication.

Bathing and boating facilities be available, but the land between the cliff and the lake would be ideal for construction of a golf course, according to Mr. Schmiede.

SMOKING MEAT BURNS BUILDING

Two Automobiles and 35 Chickens Lost in Fire at Lawe-st Home

The practice of smoking meat in a garage proved disastrous for Charles Sonleitner, 1701 S. Lawe-st. early Sunday morning when a building, housing a garage and chicken coop, caught fire and was practically destroyed. A sedan and a coup, parked in the building were ruined, and about 35 chickens were roasted to death.

A smoldering fire had been built in the building Saturday night to smoke meat. When Mr. Sonleitner, upon arising at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, discovered that the fire was practically out, he threw more fuel into the blaze, and returned to the house. A few minutes later the structure caught fire and became a roaring furnace.

A call was turned in to the fire department at 6:25. When the department arrived, the fire was too far advanced to save the building, and effort was exerted toward keeping the conflagration from spreading.

FOOD DEPARTMENT TO INDORSE NEW MEAT REGULATION

Dairy and Food Commissioner Will Champion Proposal in Legislature

Madison — (P) — A new system of regulating cheese producers and the state meat industry will have the endorsement of the state dairy and food department in the legislature. In fact proposals for the new laws have already been drawn up by C. J. Kremer, state dairy and food commissioner.

Two thirds of the state's meat is federal-inspected, he said, but the remaining third is killed in "home" butcher shops and in local sausage factories when there are no federal inspectors.

"We feel that wrong is sometimes done to the public that buys these meats because the most dangerous animals do not go where there is a federal inspector and unscrupulous fellows get hold of these animals and kill them in non-licensed plants where there is no provision for ante-mortem examination. Killed and cleaned, the meat cannot be correctly inspected, because the disease-bearing organs and the head have been separated from the carcass," Mr. Kremer said.

"In order that we may have some control over these uninspected shops we have divided the industry into three classifications, with a licensing provision to govern each."

In the first class are the butchers. To obtain a state license hereafter the butcher must have some knowledge and skill in detecting disease in animals. Then he will act as sort of state inspector for his own shop and will lose his job in that capacity and his license to butcher if he is found to be killing and selling diseased livestock. His license, which will cost $5 after he has paid a $5 examination fee, will bring with it stamps for approving his meat. Through these numbered stamps, later revelation of bad meat may be traced.

The second group includes the meat markets, which also to be licensed, under strict provision as to modern equipment, employment of persons free from communicable diseases and sanitation in sales and storage of meat. Revocation of license will also be the principal penalty for violation of this code.

WOULD CONTROL SAUSAGE
Sausage factories will come under a state law that is modeled after the minimum restrictions in the federal laws relating to cleanliness, plenty of light and ventilation. Fee for the sausage factory licenses will be $5.00.

Mr. Kremer has submitted these proposals and the ones affecting cheese factories and makers to the industries and the response has been entirely favorable with suggestions as to improvement of the regulations, he said.

The cheese factory license amendments he proposes center around a five-man board, working on a per diem pay basis, nominated by the trade and picked by the commissioner, who is one of the members. This board shall, with the advice and consent of the dairy and food commissioner, suggest the proper procedure for holding examinations and form rules under which examinations shall be conducted and hold examinations from time to time, but not oftener than once in two months in places convenient to applicants.

Applicants for cheese makers' licenses must be of sound health, so certified by a doctor, must know how to make all the tests for milk and cheese including the Babcock lactometer, Wisconsin curd, Hart casein, Methylene blue hot iron, and sediment tests, must know the laws on cheese and have sufficient knowledge of cheese making to conform to these laws, and must pass the tests submitted by the board.

The Wisconsin Cheese Makers Association, Cheese Producers Federation, Cheese Institute, and Southern Wisconsin Cheese Makers' and Dairymen's Association will each nominate three to the board, from which the commissioner will pick four men. After examining the candidates the board will report to the commissioner all facts on each applicant and licensing will be at his direction.

Applicants are to have several chances to take the test if they are unable to attend the first examination and those now holding licenses are to be licensed automatically if they have not recently violated the law and comply to other provisions. Violations will be noticed by the violator by registered mail and he will be given a hearing to show why his license should not be revoked.

Shakespeare Had Nothing On These Three Students

Shakespeare may have been a great dramatist, philosopher, poet and whatnot, but he had nothing on two or three ingenious pupils at Wisconsin junior high school. While the English classes at the school were following Portia, Antonio, Shylock and Bassanio through their many trials and tribulations in Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," Misses Dorothy Ehlike, Marcelle Haberman and Della Van Den Bosch decided to modernize Shakespeare's immortal moneylender and his fair daughter. The result is two modern versions of "The Merchant of Venice" that are both amusing and educational, and it is hoped that sometime in the future the modernized dramas can be dramatized and presented for the benefit of the entire school.

MORE GALLERY ROOM IN STATE ASSEMBLY

Senate Chamber Has More Intimate Atmosphere Than Lower House

Madison — (P) — Those who built Wisconsin's capitol apparently believed the Assembly would be more interesting to the public than the Senate, for they provided much more gallery space in the Assembly than in the upper house.

They doubtless had in mind also that when the legislature meets in joint session for such semi-public occasions as the appearance before it of the Governor to deliver a message, the meeting is held in the Assembly, necessitating larger galleries for that body.

The difference in the number of members in the two houses gives the Senate chamber an intimate atmosphere the Assembly cannot acquire. The 39 Senators, ranged in two semi-circles on desks before the rostrum of the lieutenant-governor, are in close contact with each other. They need not raise their voices above an ordinary conversational tone in debate. The architecture of their chamber creates the illusion that they are sitting in the bottom of a round bowl. Marble columns on the sides and rear, and a symbolical painting on the front wall form the sides of the bowl.

Above the heads of the senators, sunlight coming feebly through a large stained glass circle, lends little air to the electric lights. Big leather chairs and benches on the sides and back of the hall provide lounging places for relatives, friends or visitors. High up on the sides and rear the galleries furnish seats for approximately 100 spectators. The Assembly never achieves the intimate atmosphere of the Senate. Its members' desks, 100 of them, are in straight rows in front of the speaker's stand. While the Senate expresses its views through oral roll calls, the Assemblymen vote by pressing a button on their desks which records their wishes on a balloting machine.

Symbolical mural decorations also adorn the Assembly chamber, its members, like those of the Senate, making speculations on their meaning.

SECRETARY'S AID BUSIER RIGHT NOW

Opening of Legislature Increases Duties of Assistant State Secretary

Madison — (P) — As elections increase the work of one section of the state department so do openings of the legislature increase duties of another department.

Robert L. Siebeck, assistant secretary of state has charge of the sale of legislative records to attorneys, municipalities, newspapers, business firms, individuals, associations of trades, and clubs.

These organizations and persons pay the state $3.00 or $25.00 for certain sets of legislative records—$5.00 for acts as they are signed by the governor and $25.00 for all bills, notices of committee hearings and other pertinent records of the progress of the various measures.

Several thousand dollars come into the state coffers every two years because of these sales, which provide persons interested in various prospective laws with detailed information on their text and progress through the legislature.

The legislature fixes the price on its records, by law, and legislative employees mail out the desired sets of material to buyers, duplicate records in the state department for transmission to the buyer, the mailing clerks, others of the two houses, and the treasury.

Mr. Siebeck has suggested that if the legislature cared to advertise its sales of records it probably would attract a much higher revenue to the state, because firms employing lobbyists could thereby save considerable time of these men by knowing, for instance, just when the bill in which they are interested is to come on the floor or before the committee.

PROVE NEED FOR
ISOLATION HOUSE

No Place to Put Teacher Stricken With Scarlet Fever

Neenah—The need of an isolation hospital for people with contagious diseases, was manifested Saturday when Miss Clara Jaehning, a teacher at the Washington school, was taken ill with scarlet fever and was without a place to go. Miss Jaehning's home at Fredonia, was out of her roaming place where there were several small children, was out of the question. The health department and some of the aldermen finally arranged with the Conrad Peterson family whose home is already under quarantine for scarlet fever, to take Miss Jaehning.

The plan of establishing a place in which people with contagious diseases can be cared for, has been discussed on many occasions at city council meetings but went no further. It is now possible that the health department will petition for such a place.

Queen Marie Totes
HER CROWN WITH HER

Roumania's Royal Gadder
Wants to Be Sure She Keeps Emblem of Power

Constantinople—Queen Marie of Roumania, royalty's greatest goddess, arrived in Constantinople today with her crown.

She is the only crowned head of Europe—and there are not many left—who keeps her head crowned wherever she goes. Not literally, for Queen Marie knows how to wear some pretty tricky hats. But she just likes to tote a crown around on her travels—perhaps just to be sure she still has it.

ORDINARY TIARAS, TOO
Queen Marie's traveling, or going away, crown is a broad band of sapphires laced with diamonds. A special servant carries it in a shagreen case embossed with the royal monogram. She also possesses some tiaras for every day wear.

At a dinner dance in London once Queen Marie wore a tiara of emerald and black onyx—very original. She also took the floor and is reliably reported to have executed the Valse Drag.

And that was very original, too. Queen Marie of England wouldn't do that.

GUEST OF AMERICANS
During her stay in Constantinople Queen Marie will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Huntington at the American college. She arrived here from Bucharest and went immediately to the Huntington home. Princess Ileana accompanied her.

From Constantinople the Roumanian queen is expected to proceed to Rome and thence Paris and London. Rumor connects her trip with a number of objectives, none of which are confirmable. Reports from Rome say she is planning to meet her son, Prince Carol, there for a conference looking toward his ascension to the Roumanian throne which he renounced.

On the other hand it is rumored the Roumanian queen will seek a large sized loan in the international banking market of the British capital.

THE NEW Saint Sinner

Mrs. Tarver admitted Tony and Sandy, when the girl rang the bell at shortly after six o'clock that morning. At sight of the pair, the mother's flaccid, faintly greasy face flushed a sudden dark red.

"Well! This is a pretty come-off!" she cried shrilly, seizing her daughter's arm and dragging her into the hall, as she tried to shut the door upon Sandy Ross. "What does this mean, I'd like to know? You told me you were going to spend the night with Crystal, because she was in some sort of trouble—". She paused for an instant, glaring at Sandy, who had pushed in at this hour of the morning means that you and—".

"Please, Peg!" Tony protested, almost meekly. "I have been at Faith's, but—not with Crystal. Oh, Peg—Mother! I just had to see you, even if it did mean waking you up! Mother, Crystal's been—been kidnapped!"

"Now—there! Don't get your self all worked up," Mrs. Tarver admonished severely, but her mouth was twisting with emotion. "You oughtn't to have let her get up all night, Sandy Ross!" she cried.

"Yeah—s right," Sandy agreed. "Bad business—all of it. Crystal kidnapped. Hathaway got ransom money. Left ransom money in garbage can. Crook chap didn't come. Looks bad."

"What in the world are you talking about?" Mrs. Tarver demanded. "What does he mean, Tony?"

"Oh, Peg, darling!" Tony laughed a little and broke away from her mother's embrace. "You've called me Tony at least! You won't call me 'Nomy' again, will you? Is Pat awake? Oh, Pat!" she called up the stairs.

"House afire?" Pat appeared on the landing above, his head smeared with black paint, his little sleep-pouches beneath his twinkling black eyes. "Oh, hello, Sandy! You and Tony eloped?"

"Nuts!" Tony sang out, almost gaily. "Hurry, Pat! Crystal Hathaway has been kidnapped and you may be needed over at Bob's. No, I'm not joking. I never felt less like killing in my life," she added forlornly. "And I'm ashamed to admit it, but I'm hungry. Do you suppose Annabel would evaporate like a black cloud if I asked her to cook breakfast this time of the morning?"

Mrs. Tarver bridled. "I reckon I haven't forgot how to make coffee and scramble eggs. You might as well wait to tell your story till your father comes down."

Half an hour later both breakfast and Tony's story had been completely finished. Pat Tarver punched back his plate, instinctively using an old Myrtle Street gesture, for, curiously enough, Crystal's tragedy, the presence of Sandy Ross, breakfast in the kitchen, and Mrs. Tarver's unusual tenderness toward Tony had brought an atmosphere of home into the Serenity Boulevard house for the first time since the newly wealthy Tarvers had moved into it.

"I suppose the reporters will be down on us before long. Better hunt up that picture of Crystal that you used to keep on your dresser," Pat told his daughter.

Spring hats introduce new straws and fabrics; new colors and lines

BY HENRI BENDEL
NEW YORK—There is more than mere vanity in the paramount interest hats hold for women.

Of course, since hats can make a woman pretty or unattractive, it is right that they should concern the gentler sex. But fundamentally, hats also deserve consideration because of the keystone position they hold in styles.

Hats are, one might say, barometers for the mode. They reflect changes more readily and easily than frocks, gowns, suits or coats.

COLORFUL HATS AND SPRING

When hats grow colorful it usually augurs a colorful spring for all the realm of women's wear. You will remember that the ubiquitous plain little felt of a few seasons ago preceded the sports suit uniform that practically all women adopted. More recently, flaring brims, more adornment, a change in outline and increasing detail in manipulation of materials in hats came before the intricate fashions in garments today.

Therefore, it is fitting that every one concerned with women's attire should watch hats. That is why Palm Beach models hold such attention, because their changes will reflect changes all along the line.

VARIETY MARKS STRAWS

Variety of straws shown this spring is the first noteworthy thing, probably indicating the increasing wealth of new fabrics for gowns and ensembles. Bakou, ballbunt, bangkok, Paris Meme, sisol, pallasson and leghorn are seen in quantity, though most of them are expensive straws. Many of them introduce novelty versions of their straw, lacy interpretations. Color is always important in spring hats. A bright cherry is seen often, soft rose shades are excellent. Chartruse, perruche blue, lilac blue, maize, lilac beige or whites and several clear light greens are perhaps the best colors. Black hats are fewer.

A fine sense of intricate ornamentation that yet looks simple distinguishes the best models of spring. Brims that slash and turn back up on their own crowns for decoration, giving unusual silhouettes are good. Some hats show a preference for wide or irregular sides. Crowns rise slightly. Ribbons, fine flowers, feathered fancies, pins and veils adorn spring hats.

NOW—THE SCARF HAT!

The newest hat this spring is the scarf hat. If one is old enough she will remember the old auto veils that used to swathe the huge seller and anchor it for that wild ride in the open automobile of the 1900's. New scarf hats are beautiful fitting, tailor-made 1928 versions of this hat and veil combination. Many of the little scarf hats are of fine felt, velvet and vastly becoming, with their matching scarfs, their decoration as well as accompanying scarf.

To illustrate, a soft pastel pink felt turban, cleverly cut with irregular long sides, is swatched in a matching scarf of twisted chiffon cloth which threads through a slit in the right side of the hat and falls across the shoulders, extending almost to skirt's hem.

YOUTH IN THIS HAT

Illustrating the wider sides, one of which is apt to flare more than the other is a Rebox creation of burnt leghorn. It is slightly poke shaped, with its brim exceedingly short both front and back and its crown rounded in a youthful way. A gay little fan-shaped band of red, green, orange and yellow grosgrain ribbon trims it.

The small hat has so completely won woman's heart that many spring models are small. One of the newest is the hat that is a bit more sprightly in the way it sits than most small hats which snugly down on a woman's neck. One of these is a Chinese bangkok in natural tone, which is an off-white. It has a folded brim which fashions a helmet shape. A narrow band of black grosgrain ribbon is laced through the brim and crown and tied in a little bow at the back.

BY ALLENE SUMNER
We are told that there are now just about one million and a half hotel rooms in the United States; that these rooms are in about 27,000 hotels and that we have more hotels than the nation can really use. That does sound like a lot of rooms, but when one gets to wondering how many house rooms and houses there are in the country, the number seems rather pale.

But the gloom bounds will read into this warning a song of woe to the effect that we are all going to the hotel bow-wows and that what we need is the return of the old-fashioned home. By the way, there are about 27,000,000 homes.

Very short jackets and boleros are excellent for the very young.

HOTELS AND HOMES WITH SOME FIGURES

THE same simplicity and restraint which characterized the Colonial period in the American cas is seen in Britain's Jacobean era, which mirrored the history of the island kingdom in the seventeenth century. The period has three divisions, Stuart, Cromwell, and Restoration, and while little of importance developed in comparison with the work of 18th century craftsmen, the period is interesting for the rise of many motifs now considered fundamental.

Straight, cross-legged chairs of solid wood, and very rectangular, use with footstools; modifications of the Italian; melon legged refectory tables are the contribution of the first portion of the period.

Anything lavish or showy in furniture disappeared under the stern and puritanical Cromwell.

In the reign of Charles II. with the restoration came the Flemish influence. Cabinet makers from Flanders brought with them to England, the school in the form of the letter S, and the spiral twist—carving in the leg of a chair or table like the spiral puttee of the American doughboy.

Like Tudor furniture, Jacobean is usually oak, although some walnut was used. Many a piece of solid and rocking chairs in the Jacobean style can be bought but are not authentic historically. Rocking chairs were an Early American invention. Large interiors, dining rooms with paneled walls and beamed ceilings are needed as a setting for Jacobean suites.

COOPERATION OF PARENTS FOUNDATION

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
Mr. Smith sat down to the table and looked at the children.

"Max, go and wash your hands. Ruth, throw that gum away. No, don't stick it under the table, Junior, where is your handkerchief? Stop that sniffing."

"Oh, John, you're so hard on the children! I wish you wouldn't be so cross," plead Mrs. Smith plaintively.

"I'm not hard on them," said he husband. "But I don't intend to eat any dinner opposite paws like Max's and Ruth, know I dislike gum. And certainly when Junior needs to blow his nose, he needs to blow it, that's all. I'm not cross. I'm just telling them."

But the children were peeved as well as their mother. Their father had used a crisp tone they resented, and it took several reassuring looks from their mother to bring back their good humor. The looks seemed to say, "I know he's a tyrant, but we have to put up with it. Don't mind him."

Now Mr. Smith was right and he should have had the support, not the censor, of his wife. It was not the first time he had spoken of the hands, the gum, and the sniffles.

PARENTS SHOULD AGREE

Mrs. Smith should have said, "Children, I wish you would listen to your father. I think it's high time you were remembering about these things."

A house divided against itself, even in little matters like these of the Smith dinner table, is all wrong. It should not be so. Parents must cooperate if there is to be any success in training the children.

One father said, "I don't know much about children. I don't know much about training. I leave the matter of discipline to their mother. Whatever she says is right."

This is rather begging the question, or dodging the issue. It is the other extreme and I don't recommend it, but at that it is better than pulling the opposite direction. That never gets children anywhere or parents either.

Paris—Each manifestation of fashion has its proper allotted sphere as in every other form of applied art. The character of the creative is obviously the first thing you notice in any work of art. What I seek most to attain in creating any dress is to impart to it a determined character. Any style tending to be indistinct or presenting several aspects I invariably taboo.

This is intended as a word of warning to women generally. They must not expect a frock to achieve more than for what it is originally intended. Which means that a sports suit cannot be expected to be both that and an afternoon ensemble, neither must an afternoon gown be worn with a severely tailored coat.

ILLIGAL WOMAN!

Lately I have seen many examples of this lack of demarcation in clothes women are guilty of wearing. They will wear an elaborate afternoon frock with the fashionable lacy hem under a straight-lined coat obviously intended for informal wear. Many so-called smart women are thus lacking in discernment. Others besides myself have noticed this latest feature of fashions and seen in it but another of the illigal sides of feminine nature.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"What is the meaning of all this?" cried Scouty. "We have gone amiss. Who does this big hand belong to, that has grabbed our engine tight. We haven't done a thing that's wrong. Why can't we travel right along? Although it may be just a joke, it doesn't seem quite right."

Then Coppy looked around and said, "Oh, look! I see a giant's head. A monstrous man has seized us and we're in an awful mess. What does him laugh and shiver so? His body's extending to this side. I'm sorry that we took this ride. We're done for now, I guess."

The monstrous giant then cried, "Ha, ha! I've caught the tiny crowd. What funny little fellows. Why, you're tiny as can be. I do not envy you at all. Say, don't you wish that you were tall, and had big arms and shoulders, and a fat, strong first like me?"

"Well, maybe so," one Tiny said. And then the giant shook his head in the next story.

"Oh, no, you don't," he shouted. "Being small is really fine. Why, you can travel here and there and almost float out on the air. You're lucky you don't have to lead a clumsy life, like mine."

The Tines then were glad to hear him say that there was naught to fear. "I promise I won't hurt you," said the giant, with a grin. "When everything is said and done, we five will simply have some fun. And, if you will agree to that, I think we'd best begin."

"Hurry!" cried Scouty. "Sure, we're game. Remember though, you'll be to blame if anything goes wrong with us. This whole thing's up to you." This made the giant laugh once more. In fact he broke out in a roar. And then he said, "Oh, I'll take care, in anything I do."

(The Tines go to the giant's house in the next story).

Fashion For Every Hour Need of Lady of Fashion

How women should NOT dress is illustrated by Jean Patou in the left and right sketches. Here dipping hemlines spoil the effect of straight-lined coats that obviously were intended for informal wear. Center, a charming coat with full back panel topped by a bow of self-material and with unusual neck and cuff treatment of fur, has its beauty enhanced because its wearer chose an even hemmed frock to wear with it.

BY JEAN PATOU
For NEA Service

Paris—Each manifestation of fashion has its proper allotted sphere as in every other form of applied art. The character of the creative is obviously the first thing you notice in any work of art. What I seek most to attain in creating any dress is to impart to it a determined character. Any style tending to be indistinct or presenting several aspects I invariably taboo.

This is intended as a word of warning to women generally. They must not expect a frock to achieve more than for what it is originally intended. Which means that a sports suit cannot be expected to be both that and an afternoon ensemble, neither must an afternoon gown be worn with a severely tailored coat.

ILLIGAL WOMAN!

Lately I have seen many examples of this lack of demarcation in clothes women are guilty of wearing. They will wear an elaborate afternoon frock with the fashionable lacy hem under a straight-lined coat obviously intended for informal wear. Many so-called smart women are thus lacking in discernment. Others besides myself have noticed this latest feature of fashions and seen in it but another of the illigal sides of feminine nature.

Although an advocate and arbiter of the uneven and longer skirt, I think there is nothing more unsightly than a wisp of material showing below a coat and flapping against an ankle. If you want a frock with a fashionably dipping hemline, then your coat must absolutely follow suit. Better still, never wear that kind of a dress if you are intending to do an afternoon's shopping among other things. It is out of place.

I always think that any such breach of good taste and judgment on the part of any woman is illustrative of an element of incoherence both in her mind as well as in that of her exterior.

There is of course some excuse for this deficiency. Not so long ago the whole fashion world looked on complacently at a formidable encroachment of sports styles on afternoon and evening gowns. I reasonably cannot blame a woman today for lack of taste when at that time several couturiers launched the fashion of diaphanous sweaters in chiffon for afternoon wear. Even evening gowns were composed of netting more or less than elaborate sweater tops with straight skirts attached! Happily these styles were ephemeral. The inevitable reaction came in the form of very feminine afternoon and evening clothes. The change was somewhat sudden, though, and women have not quite become used to the new idea. They still talk of a "dressed sports suit" although they know that this is but a formula and that such a type of garment no longer exists.

A FASHION FOR EVERY HOUR

Women and couturiers, especially the latter, should realize once and for all that there now exists a fashion for every hour of the day, each very distinct from the other. Such errors therefore are unparadornable and should no longer be committed.

In the same order of idea the woman who wears much and elaborate jewelry with a plain sports suit is just as guilty of lack of taste and harmony.

The couturier's idea is one of creating style that is harmonious—this actually is, or should be his main theme. If his client fails to complete this harmony by judicious accessories, she destroys his effort and the style of the dress at the same time.

BEAUTY AND UTILITY

ARE COMBINED

IN THE NEW FORD

WHEN you see the new Ford, you are impressed instantly by its trim, graceful lines and air of sturdy strength. Its very appearance is a reflection of the alert, capable performance of the car. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in automobile designing.

A particularly interesting feature of the new Ford is the way beauty has been combined with utility. This is found in the length, width and height of the body, the size and shape of the radiator, the position of the gasoline tank in the cowl, the outward flow of the body, the design of the welded steel spoke wheels, the shape and position of the full nicked headlamps, the sweep and curve of the heavy full crown fenders.

Everything has been planned for service

When a thing perfectly fits its uses, it is pleasing to the eye. Every part of the new Ford has been designed and built not only to be attractive, but with a very definite thought of the work it has to do.

Even in the very little things you can see evidence of quality of material, careful workmanship and quiet good taste. The upholstery of important parts—in the way the engine develops its speed, acceleration and power without sacrificing reliability or economy.

To the man who drives his automobile many thousands of miles every year and who looks to it for continuous service at low cost, this mechanical beauty is of more importance even than beauty of line and finish.

For it is a reflection of simplicity of design, quality of materials and careful workmanship, which are the three fundamental factors in motor car performance.

There is indeed no greater tribute to the value of the new Ford than the simple, homely phrase which you hear so often from Ford owners, experienced garage mechanics and all who know and understand the workings of an automobile—"It is a sweet mechanical job."

is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing.

Attractive colors add to beauty of the new Ford

Every one of the new Ford body types is available in a choice of several beautiful two-tone color harmonies with attractive striping. This is an unusual feature in a low-price car.

The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, selected for its enduring qualities. It is not affected by heat or cold, is not easily marred or scratched, and polishes to a beautiful luster.

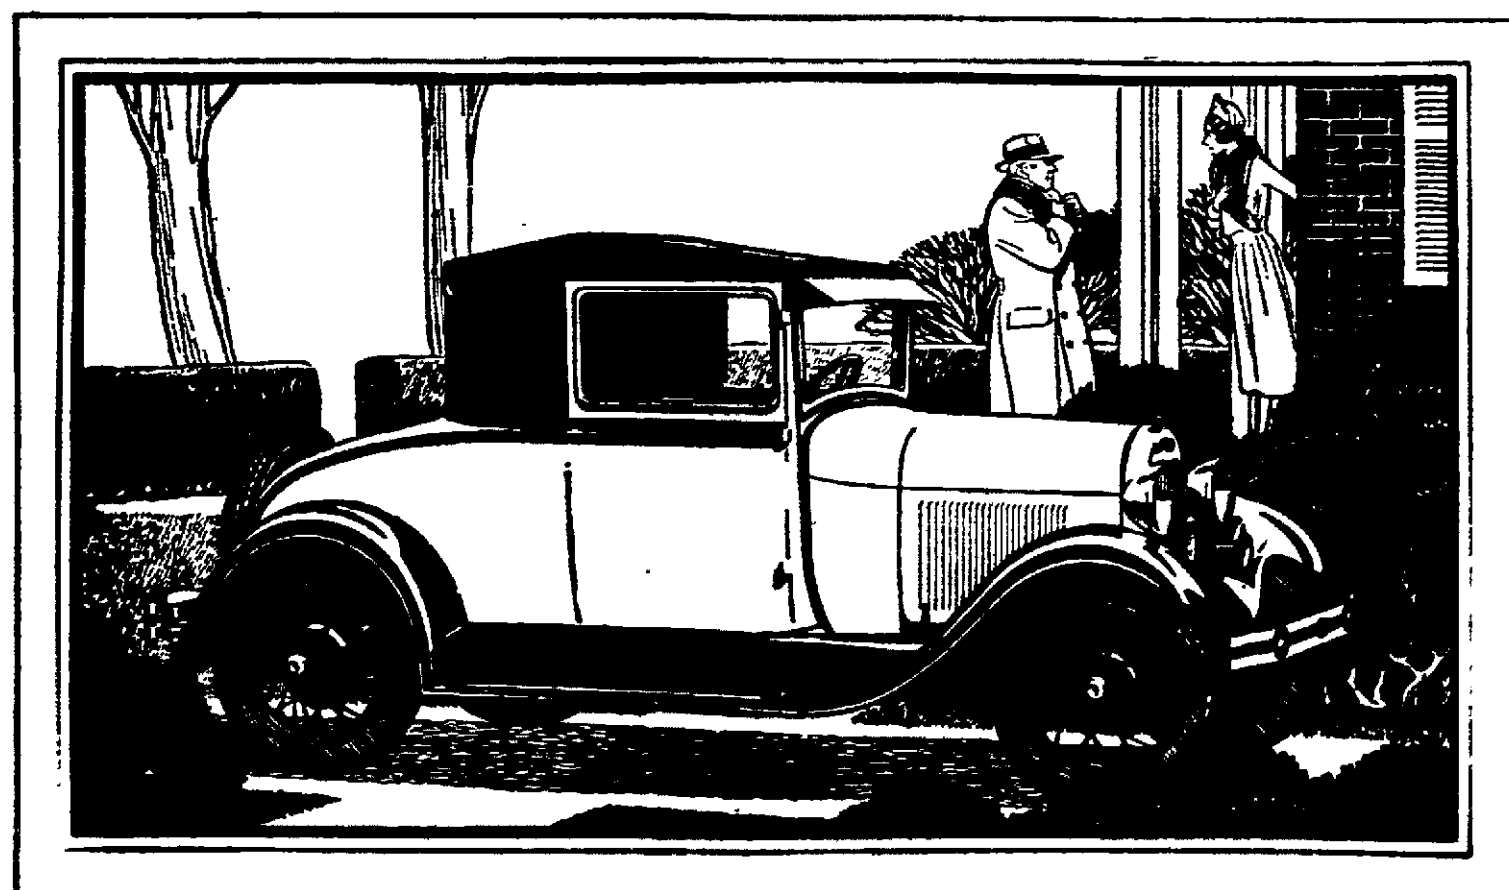

Once a month at least your car should be washed and polished.

The beauty of the Ford is not of the outside only, but extends deep down into every part—even to those hidden parts which you may never see. In the eyes of the engineer and technical man, the mechanical beauty of the new Ford is one of its greatest features.

The practical beauty of a fine machine

There is beauty, for instance, in the fine steel forgings which are used everywhere in the chassis of the new Ford where there is a possibility of wear—in the manner in which electric welding has been developed to give increased strength without increased weight—in the simplicity of the cooling, lubrication, ignition, and fuel systems—in the extensive use of ball and roller bearings—in the simple operation of the fully enclosed six-brake system—in the close limits of accuracy maintained in the manufacture

The new Ford Business Coupe has been especially designed for professional men, executives, salesmen—for all who use an automobile constantly for business use. Handy package space behind seat and unusually large rear deck are welcome features.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD CAR

Beautiful low lines

Choice of colors

Quick acceleration

Smoothness at all speeds

55 to 65 miles an hour

Silent, mechanical internal-expanding six-brake system, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed

Four Houdaille shock absorbers

HIGH SCHOOL, CITY GARAGE AND LEGION HALL FOR BIG AFFAIR

Need Several Buildings to House Exhibits at Mid-Winter Festival

Kaukauna—As in past years the annual Mid-Winter Fair from Feb. 27 and 28 and March 1, will be held in the high school auditorium and in the high school. ## VALLEY CITIES START "PUSH" TO FINISH WATERWAY

Supreme Court Decision Ex- pected to Hasten Illinois Canal

Madison—(AP)—Following closely the United States Supreme Court's decision in the Chicago Great Lakes "water steal" case a "push" was started for expeditious completion of the Illinois waterway.

The Supreme Court ordered Chicago to desist from drawing great quantities of water from Lake Michigan for its sewage disposal and drinking supply, but allowed this practice to continue for a reasonable time until the city can complete a sewage disposal system.

Manufacturing centers on the Mississippi valley among them Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Omaha, Des Moines, Kansas City, St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans communicated with Chicago to promote early finishing of the Illinois canal project which will link the Great Lakes with the Mississippi river and make Chicago an important inland water port.

Chicago several years ago secured permission from the secretary of war to divert a little over 4,000 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan to make the canal navigable for heavy freight crafts. The canal also carries away the city's sewage.

Chicago then found it necessary to divert 8,500 cubic feet of water per second from the lake to carry sewage away.

Diversion of so much water was lowering the lake level and thereby damaging lakeshore property in Wisconsin and Michigan and suit was started in the supreme court.

The court ordered Chicago to devise means of disposing of its sewage other than through the canal, so the amount of water needed from the lake for the canal may be reduced.

Southern states, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Arkansas, all of which border on the Mississippi river system, joined with Illinois in defending the diversion of 8,500 cubic feet per second. These states are vitally interested in the Great Lakes-to-Gulf water project.

Four million dollars in addition to the sum already spent will be needed to build locks, widen the channel, and complete other work making the canal navigable to freight barges.

Chicago governmental units plan conferences with Gov. Emmerson, of Illinois on ways and means of raising the money necessary to complete the waterway link and the Mississippi Valley association has sent representatives to Washington to promote appropriations.

STAGE And SCREEN

EDITH AMBLER CO.

The Popular Edith Ambler Stock Co. will open their third three day stand at the Appleton Theatre tonight presenting the Comedy Drama "The Old Home Town. It is one of the funniest plays ever written and is well played and cast by the excellent Ambler Stock Co. It is a play of Rural Life and has the characters so true to all small towns. Walter Ambler the comedian of the company will be seen in another Red Headed boy part along the lines of the first presentation in Appleton. This company is becoming very popular in Appleton having played to three packed houses in the Appleton Theatre on their last visit here. The Management requests that as many as possible should come on Monday night the first night of the company's engagement as it will be possible to get better seats for this night of the three. An excellent picture program will precede the stage show as usual.

Manufacturing centers on the Mississippi valley among them Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Omaha, Des Moines, Kansas City, St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans communicated with Chicago to promote early finishing of the Illinois canal project which will link the Great Lakes with the Mississippi river and make Chicago an important inland water port.

Chicago several years ago secured permission from the secretary of war to divert a little over 4,000 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan to make the canal navigable for heavy freight crafts. The canal also carries away the city's sewage.

Chicago then found it necessary to divert 8,500 cubic feet of water per second from the lake to carry sewage away.

Diversion of so much water was lowering the lake level and thereby damaging lakeshore property in Wisconsin and Michigan and suit was started in the supreme court.

The court ordered Chicago to devise means of disposing of its sewage other than through the canal, so the amount of water needed from the lake for the canal may be reduced.

Southern states, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Arkansas, all of which border on the Mississippi river system, joined with Illinois in defending the diversion of 8,500 cubic feet per second. These states are vitally interested in the Great Lakes-to-Gulf water project.

Four million dollars in addition to the sum already spent will be needed to build locks, widen the channel, and complete other work making the canal navigable to freight barges.

Chicago governmental units plan conferences with Gov. Emmerson, of Illinois on ways and means of raising the money necessary to complete the waterway link and the Mississippi Valley association has sent representatives to Washington to promote appropriations.

BILL GIVES STATE AID TO COUNTIES TO SET UP PARKS

Senator Duncan Suggests $100,000 Appropriation for Recreation Spots

Madison — An appropriation of $50,000 for two years for state aid to counties along Lake Michigan who want to establish parks on the lake shore, is requested in a senate measure introduced by Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee. It provides that state aid to the county should not exceed 10 per cent of the cost of the park.

Madison — Telephone companies would be exempted from the law requiring public utilities to obtain a certificate of public convenience and necessity from a public utility commission before beginning operations under the terms of a bill introduced Friday by Senator Howard Teasdale, Sparta.

The effect of such change in the law would be to permit new telephone companies to supply service even though the field is covered by another company. It would take from the railroad commission the right to say whether such companies may be established.

Madison—Endorsement of the second Wisconsin good will tour which will visit the south next month, was requested in a joint resolution introduced Friday by Senator H. J. Severson. Without asking for a state appropriation, the resolution would authorize the departments of agriculture, markets and the conservation commission, as well as other state divisions, to send exhibits and representatives on the trip.

Madison—Dissolution of drainage districts when one-half of their area has been sold for tax delinquency is asked in a measure introduced by Senator Walter J. Rush, Neillsville, Friday.

Madison—Assemblyman Peter Ebbe of Marshfield presented a bill in the lower house of the legislature providing that cities of 10,000 or less have but one supervisor on the county board for each 600 of population but that only one from each county to be named in cases where a city is in two counties.

Mrs. Walter J. Kohler "first lady" of the state, appeared in the Governor's office one day this week for a brief period. She noticed newspapermen awaiting their morning conference with her husband and stopped for a few minutes to introduce herself to all the reporters present. Some of them had already met her and she engaged in lively conversation with them.

The state Capitol rotunda will soon become a display room again, the month bringing at least two exhibits there. First road materials and road machinery and equipment will fill the rotunda, then small-town newspapers will be thumb-tacked to boards around the marble rail. The road materials will be part of the exhibition for the annual road school, and if previous practices are continued the Wisconsin Press Association will be in charge.

How To Play Bridge

BY ALBION C. WORT

The rule for determining whether a double is intended to be business or informative is: a double is business when made of a bid of two or more No Trumps, four or more of a suit, or of any bid after partner of doubler has bid or doubled. A double is informative when made of one No Trump or one, two or three of a suit provided partner of doubler has not previously bid or doubled.

The only exception occurs when an original one No Trump is overcalled immediately by two of a suit. In that case a double by the partner of the No Trump is informative. A modern bidder will not bid two of a suit over a No Trump unless, with partner's held, he has a good chance of game. When strong with a No Trump against him, he does not expect his partner to furnish more than two tricks; so he does not overcall a No Trump at a love score unless he has eight tricks in a major suit or nine in a minor. So little can be gained by a business double of such bid, and a doubling opportunity would be wasted if the informative double could not be used.

Suppose Dealer bids No Trump. Second Hand two Spades, and Third Hand holds:

♠ X
♥ J-X-X
♦ J-X-X
♣ A-J-X

Unless his double would be considering informative, Third Hand would have to pass. To bid three Hearts, Diamonds or Clubs, even with a No Trump hand as Dummy would be too great a risk. If Third Hand's bid should happen to name Dealer's best suit, it would succeed, but the odds are two to one against that coincidence. Dealer naturally will assume a bid of three made by Third Hand is supported by a strong five-card suit and may advance it further with but three cards of the suit in his own hand. Then, the chances being that Fourth Hand is long where Second Hand is short, the result is apt to be disastrous.

An informative double under such conditions, however, involves little if any risk, and frequently produces game as Dealer bids his long suit and gets the best contract for the combined hands. Third Hand's bid would be a two-to-one shot with the odds against him, his double would be sure fire.

To illustrate further, suppose the four hands to be as follows:

♠ 10-8-3
♥ J-5-2
♦ A-J-7
♣ 10-7
♠ 10-8-3
♥ J-5-2
♦ A-J-7
♣ 10-7

If South bid one No Trump and West two Spades, North—should be bid—would choose Hearts (the Major suit) or Clubs (the stronger of his Minors) and neither bid would be game; but if he doubled informatively, South would bid Diamonds and go game.

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. Panneck, D.C.
PALMER CHIROPRACTOR

QUESTION: I am a young woman, not at all well. I contract diseases very easily. My doctor tells me that I have low resistance, which makes me susceptible to diseases. I am discouraged and melancholy. I have about decided to take adjustments from you. Please explain more about Chiropractic.

ANSWER: The energy by which the body is run accumulates in the brain and stores in the nervous system where it is automatically released and conveyed to the cells, giving them life and power to perform healthy functions. All healing is done by this internal force of nature — force resident in the brain, the nerves and the cells. All vital energy is nerve energy, and when that vital power is free to flow in abundance in a man he will get well from almost any disease or injury short of complete destruction of vital organs. The healing consists in the repairing in the diseased tissues and organs and in the cells, restoring and repairing themselves through a normal supply of nerve energy recharging them through the nervous system from the brain.

Vitality always works upward toward life and health so long as the nerves passing through the spine are free from any interference to their normal action. This is based upon the fundamental health law of Nature.

Disease is simply abnormal action, because of abnormal conditions from pressure on nerves in the spine. The life-force is nature acting through or in the nerves and cells, it is another name for nerve energy and does the work of carrying on life and restoring health. The Chiropractor adjusts the misaligned bones of the spine back to normal position, which reestablishes an uninterupted communication between brain and body and prepares the way for Nature to do her mighty work in restoring health and strength to a weak, ailing person. Chiropractic adds years to life and life to years.

WOULD PUT WHEEL TAX ON ELECTRIC TRUCKS

Madison—(AP)—A wheel tax of two cents for each ten miles traveled by electric trucks and cars would be collected under a bill by Assemblyman F. W. Cords, Milwaukee, who would have this mileage tax ascertained by representatives of the state treasury who would inspect hub meters on trucks.

Mr. Cords said many large mercantile and industrial concerns using electric trucks now and the only tax they pay for these is the regular automotive license plate fee.

while they use the highways and streets more than ordinary automobiles.

He anticipates a bill in the legislature to provide for all state fees on automobiles to be collected through a wheel tax instead of gasoline tax.

Three New Speedsters Flash At Post-Crescent Races

CLEM KITZINGER AGAIN WINS THE P-C CHAMP TITLE

THREE new speed skaters in the city flashed onto the horizon Sunday afternoon at the annual Post-Crescent skating tournament held at Jones park, and they probably will join with the rest of the group from the city to compete in meets held throughout this section of the state—and continue to uphold the reputation of the city as the best of speed skaters.

The new speed artists are Ramona Ryan, winner in the junior girl races by a margin that marks her as one of the fastest junior skaters ever to toe the mark at Jones park. Emmet Mortell, winner of two intermediate boys races and Frank Grosser, almost an unknown, who flashed to the front to take even honors with Art Roemer in the senior men's race.

Appleton has been considered the home of majority of the speed skaters in this section of the state, and with the three new entries in the field as a result of Sunday's races, the city probably can lay claim to practically all speed honors.

About 1,500 persons saw the race Sunday afternoon, a good crowd considering that it was mostly cold during the late minutes of the afternoon. The sides of the rink were lined with fans as were the steps and the bridge across the ravine.

Besides the afternoon's races, the fans were treated to the figure skating exhibition put on by Dell Blissett, Oshkosh, who has skated for a great number of years and has entered in numerous figure skating exhibitions. He entertained the crowd with a ten minute exhibition early in the races and with another ten minute exhibition late in the races. Despite the fact that the exhibition was held in the afternoon, the fans were not deterred from the intricate weaves of the various figures Mr. Blissett was cutting, they appreciated his efforts. After the races he had an opportunity to talk with many of the youngsters about the sport and they'll probably be trying their luck during the next few weeks.

There was plenty of speed for the fans in all races despite the fact there might have been more from the afternoon. Clem Kitzinger, Bob Roemer and Percy Sharp battled in the champions races, Kitzinger winning two first places and a cup for his efforts.

In the senior girl races, the mile trophy went to Martha Bell, and the 500 yard race to Ella Nickasch. Martha Bell won the medal for the 220 yard dash.

The senior men's races featured a battle all afternoon between Art Roemer and Frank Grosser, the ending in a tie for points. An 880 yard race then was run to settle supremacy and the two men finished in a dead heat. Both will be awarded cups for their exhibitions.

The intermediate boys races also gave the fans a fun for their money, the 880 going to Ray Crane and the 440 to Emmet Mortell. Crane slipped during the final lap but made one of the best recoveries seen in many years and finished in second place.

Results of the races:
Junior boys, 220-yard dash—Raymond, Rippl, Carl Riesch, Francis Crane. Time: 25.5.
Junior girls, 220-yard dash—Ramona Ryan, Jane Ritger, Audrey Reider. Time: 29.7.

MEHLHORN SETS NEW RECORD AT TOURNEY

El Paso, Tex. (AP)—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn held a new world's golfing record Monday, but the cash he received for the performance, which won the El Paso open tournament, was hardly more than pittance in the professional golf world.

The New York pro collected but $500 for the best 72 holes of the tournament golf ever played. He clipped 17 strokes from par to win the tournament here Sunday with the startling score of 271. Far for four trips around the 18-hole layout is 288.

GEORGE HILL FIGHTS IN MILWAUKEE CARD

One of the prize feuds of local wrestling, that between Ernest Schaefer and George Hill, will be settled at the Gayety, Thursday night, when the two hook up in a finish. Hill, best two out of three falls. Schaefer and Hill are in the position at present.

Thanks Folks—

THE Post-Crescent sports department again wishes to extend its thanks to the skaters for their interest in the seventh annual race, an interest which made the event the success it was. Thanks also are extended to the officials who ran the meet in a manner that left nothing to be desired and to Chief George Prim of the police department and his officer who kept order throughout the afternoon.

Officials at the races were Coach Joseph Shields, announcer; Joseph Trepanis, starter; Coach Clarence H. Rasmussen, timer; John Roach, assistant starter; Don Morrisey, Charles Henderson and Harold Frank, judges; Arthur Dahl, Clarence Bentle and Morace Davis, field judges.

BIG TEN TEAMS TO PLAY MONDAY NIGHT

Wisconsin May Beat Purdue After Victory Over Minnesota

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
Chicago (AP)—Coach Walter Meanwell and his band of Wisconsin short pass artists will attempt to break Purdue's championship bound machine at LaFayette Monday night in what promises to be one of the liveliest battles of the entire Big Ten basketball campaign.

The contest is the outstanding attraction of this week's small card, which calls for only two other conference games—Indiana at Indiana Monday night and Chicago at Ohio State Saturday.

Both the Badgers and Boilermakers flashed championship form in their battles Saturday night. Purdue shattered a Hoosier tradition by defeating Indiana, 29 to 23, at Bloomington, while Wisconsin swamped Minnesota for the second time this season, 29 to 17, at Madison, Indiana, which virtually dropped out of the race with the defeat—its third in four games—threatened the Boilermakers, who were forced to make a desperate rally in the closing minutes to win. It was the first time Purdue ever defeated Indiana at Bloomington at basketball.

Indiana is expected to have an easy time Monday night with Minnesota, which has lost four straight games.

Northwestern today stood out as a great threat to those teams which have had hopes of winning the title. After dropping three straight games, Northwestern has come back with a rush, defeating Ohio State and Iowa. Iowa fell before the Wildcats Saturday night, 27 to 28. The defeat was Iowa's second in four games.

Illinois was forced to the limit to beat Chicago, 29 to 19, in the fourth game of Saturday night's card.

While the week's attractions are dull, Notre Dame will stimulate interest by invading Northwestern Saturday night. Notre Dame has been unconquerable away from home this season.

SNOW SPOILS SKIING MEET AT OCONOMOWOC

Oconomowoc (AP)—Heavy snow and a difficult take-off hampered participants in the ski tournament sponsored by the Oconomowoc ski club here Sunday afternoon. The contestants were judged largely on form displayed.

Results in the two divisions are as follows:
Class A: First, Sven Welhaven, Milwaukee, Ski Club, 17.95 points; second, Arvid Bakke, of the same club, 17.50 points.
Class B: First, Ted Zoberisk, Milwaukee Ski Club, 17.35 points; second, M. Waterman, Norge Ski Club, Chicago, 17.12 points.

Other skiers who placed in the Class B division are: Al Johnson, Racine Ski Club, 17.00; Reuben Knutson, Oshkosh Ski Club, 17.10; Lawrence Maurin, Milwaukee Ski Club, 16.94; Norman Nilsen, Milwaukee, 16.82; Joe Maurin, Milwaukee, 16.86; Wilfred Nautech, Oconomowoc, 16.66; Knute Dahl, University of Wisconsin, 16.66; James Carlisle, Milwaukee, Raymond Peterson, Westby, Wis., 16.50; and Oconomowoc, tied with 16.16.

Hoppe Out Of Billiard Meet For First Time

BY ORLO L. ROBERTSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Failure of Willie Hoppe to enter the international 152 ballkins tournament starting in New York Feb. 4, will mark the first time the name of the "craz" of the billiard world has been missing from championship tournaments since 1906.

From 1910 to 1923 Hoppe was the monarch of the billiard kings. He faltered long enough to lose his title to Young Jake Schaefer in 1921 but bounced back the following year and for three more years led the list. But in 1925 the "billiard king" was through, finishing fourth in the international tournament. He attempted a comeback two years later but dropped still lower, finishing sixth in a field of seven.

Twenty-three years ago, when 18 years of age, Hoppe first gained international recognition by defeating Maurice Vignaux, 59-year old Frenchman, as the world's 181 champion in a match played in Paris.

Hoppe's supremacy, however, was short lived. Young Jake Schaefer, trouncing the young cue artist the following year only to have Hoppe regain the championship later in the year.

With the death of Schaefer in 1919 young Willie Hoppe, as he was then called, went out to beat the world's 182 champion. He was the world's 182 champion and he was the world's 182 champion.

After invading Iowa last week and annexing two victories, Lawrence college, Appleton, continues to remain on equal footing with Carleton college of Northfield, Minn., and Monmouth college, Monmouth, Ill., in the Midwest conference.

All three teams have clear records and lead six other teams in the conference.

Carleton did not engage in conference games last week, but the team has played three games, having defeated Beloit, the Knox college of Carleton.

PURDUE LEADS IN BIG TEN SCORING

Wisconsin Comes Up in Second Place With Northwestern Third

Chicago (AP)—Led by its scoring ace, "Stretch" Murphy, Purdue piled up 93 points in two games last week to increase its lead in the Big Ten basketball team scoring race. The Boilermakers, have won five straight games, and scored 210 points.

Murphy also widened his lead in the individual scoring marathon, tallying 41 points in two games for a grand total of 76, or 34 more than his closest rival, Harmon of Purdue and Wilcox of Iowa, who are tied for second place. Murphy needs to average less than nine points a game in his remaining seven contests to shatter the all time Big Ten scoring mark of 133, established by Johnny Miner of Ohio State in 1915.

Wisconsin was second in team scoring, while Michigan ranked first in defense. Only 85 points have been scored against the undefeated Wolverines in four games.

Coach Walter Meanwell's husky Wisconsin basketball quintet meets Purdue's championship aspirant five at Lafayette, Ind., Monday night. Both these strong teams encountered conference foes Saturday when the Badgers tangled with Minnesota here and won while Ward Lambert's Boilermakers fought it out with Indiana at Bloomington.

Despite the advantage in height which the giant "stretch" Murphy holds over any center in the conference, Wisconsin's six feet two squad grosses slightly taller than the Lambert men and Monday night's battle will be the Meanwell tight defense against the most dangerous long range basketmaker in the Big Ten.

As in every tilt in which Purdue featured this season, the elongated Boilermaker center will be a marked man and Capt. Elmer Tenhopes of the Badgers has been assigned to nullify "stretch's" deadly basket shooting, which so far has placed him at the top of the conference scores.

Meanwell's guards in addition to stopping Murphy, must cover Captain Cummings and Glenn Harmon, the team's up Purdies brilliant scoring trio. Harmon now is threatening Murphy for individual Big Ten honors.

Meanwell will probably start the same lineup which took the floor against Indiana and Minnesota last week, though Hank Kowalczyk, the Badger's own Indiana scoring threat, may alternate throughout the evening with Ryan Miller at guard.

Though he spent last week in work on speeding up his offense, Meanwell relies on an air-tight defense tonight to halt the fast scoring Purdue team. In Chmielewski and Ellerman, Meanwell has succeeded in creating two defense men at present rating with the best in the conference. Chmielewski's floor work in both the Indiana and Minnesota games was perfect.

Mixing their shortness game with longer tosses at the basket, Foster Miller and Tenhopes will carry the brunt of the Bager attack in a tilt which will virtually establish Wisconsin or Purdue as championship timber.

"Y" NET BALLERS TAKE THIRD PLACE

Two Teams Entered in Doubles Tourney at Oshkosh Saturday

Appleton Y. M. C. A. placed third in an inter city doubles volley ball tournament held at the Elk club, Oshkosh, Saturday afternoon. The team was defeated by Fond du Lac and Young Jake Schaefer in 1921 after Young Jake had broken all records for titular play.

In refusing to compete in the New York tournament Hoppe said he was not through with the game, which won his international fame.

"I felt that one year of competition at three-cushion and my record in billiard match with Ralph Greenleaf had weakened my billiard stroke," Hoppe said. "I feel that I have no desire to drop that low this year."

Hoppe desired the billiard kings' shot in an effort to win a three-cushion title but was defeated in the finals by Johnnie Layton of St. Louis. In both the national and world's tournament. After his defeat in the latter in December Hoppe, a once he would return to his "first love" within the next year, having given up all hope of winning a three-cushion championship.

ers of Galesburg, Ill., and Hamline college of St. Paul, Minn.

In their first conference game Jan. 5, the Monmouth men defeated the Ripon Redmen. The Illinois team did not play a conference contest last week.

At Cedar Rapids, Ia., Friday night the Lawrence Vikings defeated the Coe Kohawks 25 to 19. On Saturday night Lawrence traveled to Mount Vernon, Ia., and gained a second victory by leaving the Cornell Redmen on the small end of a score 18 to 17. Lawrence defeated Hamline Jan. 5.

Three teams trail the leaders in the conference with equal percentages. They are Cornell, Knox and Ripon.

Cornell won a game from Beloit Jan. 12 and lost the Saturday night game to Lawrence. Knox defeated Carleton and lost to Ripon, in games the first week of the conference season. Ripon defeated Hamline on Jan. 5 and conquered Beloit, Thursday night, 29 to 16, while the Redmen lost two games, one to Monmouth and one to Knox.

Beloit college has been less fortunate in its conference tilts this season, having been defeated in all three games played, including those against Carleton and Cornell on Jan. 7 and 11, respectively, and Ripon Saturday night.

Hamline is on equal basis with Beloit. The team from Fond du Lac, Wis., lost to Lawrence and Carleton the first week of the season.

CLEVELAND WILL TRY TO FINISH BETTER THIS YEAR

Indian Management Hasn't Hopes for Title as It Seeks Players

BY KENETH E. SANDERS
Associated Press Staff Writer
CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians will enter the 1929 champion noncommittal on their prospects but hoping for the best from one of the most thoroughly overhauled lineups in the American league.

"We hope we have a better club than last year," was the only comment forthcoming from Billy Evans, general manager of the Tribe, and he admitted that the Redskins could fare much better this season and still not be much of an improvement over last year's seventh place outfit.

Outside of the moundmen, only the veteran Charley Jamieson in left field, Carl Lind at second base and Luke Sewell behind the bat will be found in their customary positions as the tribe stacks up on paper. Gone are George Burns, George Uhle, Homer Summa and Lesser Light of the tribe of other years.

The seemingly eternal hunt for a successor to Tris Speaker has resulted in the purchase of Dick Porcello from Baltimore and Earl Averill from San Francisco, both slugging outfielders who cost $45,000 each. With the sale of Summa to Philadelphia and the release of Gerkin, Langford and others, the way is paved for Porter and Verhill to patrol the outfield with Jamieson.

Olie Tucker of New Orleans, Charles Dorman from Tyler, Texas, and John Gill, from Decatur may help.

Lind will be back at second, but an otherwise revamped infield will find Sewell shifted from short to third, Johnny Hodapp moved from third to first; and Tavenner, obtained with Pitcher Kenneth Holloway from Detroit for George Uhle, is slated for short. Backstops include first baseman Glenn Bolton, from Terre Haute, shortstop John Burnett, a teammate of Bolton's and Ray Gardner, of New Orleans, who was the Southern Association's leading shortstop last year.

The catching department will remain the same—Luke Sewall, Mayett and Eudell. Miller, Miljus, Grant, Shaute and Underhill are holdover hurlers available to manager Roger Peckinpaugh. He looks for further assistance from among such players as Holloway, Jimmy Zinn, who in five of the last six years has won 20 or more games a season for Kansas City in the American association, and Eddie Smith of Little Rock, who led the Southern association in pitching last year; and Wesley Ferrell, who pitched 20 victories last year for Terre Haute. All the newcomers are right handers.

The Indians, alone among all big league teams, will remain in their training camp until they start north for the opening. Believing that a heavy practice schedule takes more from the team that it adds to the treasury, the Tribe's mentors will hold them in New Orleans until the first game. There they will meet all comers, but will do no traveling.

ZWICK FIGHTS ON MILWAUKEE CARD

"Comeback" Bout Is Scheduled for Monday, Jan. 28 at Auditorium

Milwaukee (AP)—Milwaukee's exacting fight public will be treated to what is being called a "comeback" bout in the way of mitt swinging—punch, jab and some more punch—when the Cream City Athletic Club stages its next card at the Milwaukee Auditorium on Monday, Jan. 28.

A double windup of ten rounds each has been arranged by the matchmaker and the first half on the twin tent, the Phil Zwick-Sammy Shuck brawl, certain to arouse statewide interest, will be again lead the parade and "Jockey" Miller, Kaukauna's well known live-wire, has already started a roundup of Zwick's most enthusiastic backers.

Shack, who hails from New York, comes heralded as one of the best featherweights in the land today, but Zwick's handlers argue that Phil, due to a recent loss, is not in the work like a champion and hitting with all the dynamite that was his when he took Cleveland by storm.

The main piece of ten rounds, involving King Tut of Minneapolis and Babe Ruth of Philadelphia, promises to be the sockin'est brawl ever staged in the Cream City. This Tut person keeps coming, not matter how many gloves are thrown at him and Henry Tuttle (that's Tut) himself jacks murder in other mites.

His last Milwaukee appearance against Eddie Anderson, Tut made such a hit that the fans howled for a rematch, but it wasn't until now that Matchmaker Andrews was able to engage the Minneapolis busybody.

KIMBERLY GRIDDERS PRESENTED WITH CUP

Kimberly (The engraved cup presented by the Catholic Herald of Milwaukee to the Kimberly football team, champions of the Catholic Junior Football League, has arrived and will be awarded to the team at a banquet to be given in their honor at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening in the Clubhouse. The team is also to receive a pennant from the Reach Sport shop at Appleton but it has not yet arrived. In reward for their splendid playing and team work each player on the regular team will receive a gold football charm and the subs silver ones. Those receiving the charms are: "Buck" Le May, Jack Van Lenn, Matt Du Pont, Royal "Buck" Weyenberg, George "Grat"

Vander Zanden, Sylvester De Wildt, Ray Schwank, Sylvester Schwank, Joseph Gossens, Guy Courchane and Ervin Melcher, gold ones, and Ralph "Red" Schertz, Babe Le May, Julius Vande Hy and Lambert Green, silver ones.

The team played five conference games and won them all. They played Appleton, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Green Bay and Menasha, and totaled 70 points to their opponents' 6. Kaukauna was the only team that scored off of them. "Curly" Lang was coach and the Rev. P. J. Skell, manager.

Shanks had been trying to tell Sam how to play batters and Sam didn't like it exactly. . . . In one game he was caught out of position and the ball game went with the hit. . . . If he had been where Shanks told him to play he would have caught the ball. . . . And he knew it. . . . He looked down into the dugout and saw Shanks talking to Manager Peckinpaugh. . . . He thought: "There goes the old raps" and when the side was retired he came in ready to swing. . . . He led a couple at Shanks, who didn't know what it was all about. . . . And the played grabbed him. . . . Before he could get his beating.

It is understood that Rickard had obligated himself to the extent of about $150,000 for the Sharkey-Stribling fight. Sharkey was said to have been guaranteed $100,000 and $25,000 and a cut of the gate had been promised to Stribling.

Rickard had a characteristic way of reaching a verbal agreement with his men, and having the contracts signed at some time that was handy and convenient for the parties concerned.

The dead promoter wasn't in his grave when the under officers at the Garden became curious to know if any real contracts had been signed. It would be a good out if there was anything in black and white, and the under officers made their opinion plain that $100,000 was much too much for Mr. Sharkey.

BANKERS AND K-C TEAMS WIN GAMES IN Y. M. C. A. LEAGUE

Both Teams Take Early Leads and Romp to Victories

The Citizen National Bank basketball team scored another upset in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial league when it defeated the strong local Paper company team, 29 and 19, Saturday evening on the "Y" courts.

The second game of the evening went just the way it was expected, the Kimberly-Clark company team at Neenah beating Co. D, Appleton, 23 and 15.

In the first game of the evening, the Bankers got off to an early start with H. Voeks and Haase tossing baskets at random and the score at the half way mark was 21 and 7. The Paper company team failed to stage a comeback in the second period while the Bankers improved upon their totals and capped the game.

The heavy, experienced Kimberly-Clark team from Neenah didn't have much trouble taking the Co. D, five into camp. Watching Bauers so that he counted only two baskets, the K. C. team went off with an early lead and capped handsly.

THEY DON'T KNOW
THE statement of the directors of Madison Square Garden that "we don't know what we'll do about the Sharkey-Stribling fight" shows just what a job they are going to have to fill the place of Tex Rickard. NEW EVOLUTION TRIAL LOOMING IN TENNESSEE

Jamestown May Be Scene of Case, in Which Prof Elmore Gentry Will Feature

Jamestown, Tenn.—Back in the rugged hills of Fentress county, where Sergeant Alvin C. York won "shooting matches" with a turkey as the prize in the days before he shouldered a gun for Uncle Sam and marched to world fame, another Scopes case is looming.

Elmore Gentry is the chief figure in Tennessee's second evolution case.

Jamestown, the historic little county seat where Mark Twain's father and mother resided before they moved to Missouri, is the scene.

Gentry was charged by Bart Jones and Fred Dixon with teaching evolution. Both are parents of boys in this school. A book in the school library led to the charges. It teaches evolution.

When the school board convened to hear the charges, the prosecutors failed to appear and within ten minutes the case was dismissed. Fifty pupils of the school were present, ready to testify that their teacher had not taught evolution. Other patrons were present, ready to back the principal.

Alvin York was a spectator.

"I'm not much interested, though," commented the famous hero.

And town folk generally were unexcited.

But S. S. Parnell, young attorney, was interested. He announced he would swear out a state warrant, charging Gentry with violating the state law which forbids the teaching of the theory of evolution in the public schools. He said that he would have Gentry taken before a justice of the peace and endeavor to have him held to the April term of the grand jury.

Such action would assure Jamestown of another court fight over evolution, like at Dayton several years ago when Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan clashed.

Gentry, like Scopes does not want publicity, however. He is a member of the Christian church and a believer in the literal interpretation of Scripture.

"Professor Gentry bought the books in the school library and which led to the charges, but did not know them what they contained," says A. R. Kogus, one of the attorneys in the case.

"He says that the books do not conflict with the Bible, so far as he knows, and he does not approve of narrowness and bigotry."

Chicago Civic Opera Company Will Desert 40-Year Home In Few Weeks

The Chicago Civic Opera Company January 26 will close its activities at its home of 40 years (interior upper left) and move next fall to its new 42-story building (lower right). Adeline Patt (upper right) appeared in "Romeo and Juliet" when the old Auditorium opened in 1889. The same Shakespearean drama will close the old building, with Edith Mason (lower left) as Juliet.

Chicago.—(AP)—Forty years of opera in the Auditorium theater ends January 26 with the Chicago Civic Opera company's last performance in the old building. The present season closes that night.

Next fall the opera company will play in the huge new 42-story Opera building, towering above the murky Chicago river.

"Romeo and Juliet" was the first opera sung in the Auditorium. Adeline Patt's touching tones gave life to the ill-fated Juliet that night of December 10, 1889.

For the final opera in the brown-tinted vastness of the theater, Edith Mason will be the Juliet and Charles Hackett Romeo.

could wring from him the declaration for which she longed.

But Hollis shook his head. "Heaven," he said, "has let me dream for a whole week. Now it is time to wake."

"But why wake?" she cried. "We pay for our dreams in waking out of them. Why can't we go on dreaming?"

He smiled ruefully.

"Life," he told her gently, "isn't like that. Dreams are only interludes."

"Well, it's been lovely," she sighed. "But it's going to be perfectly hideous, trying to put it all behind me. To go on like a stenographer. And live in a poke little flat. And take dictation and read a typewriter all day. And go to bed at night. And never see the stars except over the top of buildings."

"Poor working girl!" he taunted.

"With nothing ahead but life!"

"Life!" she scorned. "What's life when you spend it the way I have to?"

"Oh, you'll find your stars," he consoled her. "And love. In other gardens. You're very young, you know. Orchid, and very beautiful!"

He put his hand on her head in fatherly fashion. And then kissed her and felt the sting of tears on his bewildered lips.

"Why, Orchid?" he cried.

"It's nothing," she insisted, and brushed her eyes hastily. "I get so sorry for myself sometimes—that's all."

"Sorry?" he echoed. "Why, you adorable little simpleton, don't you know that you ought to go around singing rhapsodies of joy. Just because you're alive, with all life stretching like a great adventure, ahead of you?"

"There's no adventure," she told him. "In being poor."

"Well, there's a lot more than in being rich," he maintained. "Being rich now is a awful bore. When you can have everything you want, you know you don't want things."

"And have you everything you want?" she asked.

He looked at her quietly.

"Everything," he said, "that money can buy."

"I suppose," she mused, "money has absolute purchasing power. With money you can buy power, position, leisure, enjoyment. Love even?"

She was treading on dangerous ground and she knew it.

"Yes," she repeated slowly. "A man could buy perfect love, I imagine."

She sat on a little hillock, and drew her knees up under her chin. "Sit down," she invited, "and tell me what a cold-blooded, hard-boiled wicked woman I am."

"I would," he said. "If I thought you meant it. But I know you're altogether too idealistic to believe that sort of thing. Love, Orchid, is the one commodity that cannot be bartered and sold."

She looked across the mountains to the ocean, shimmering in glorious haze.

"Oh I know," she cried. "I'm a perfect little beast! But you don't

The Fight on Fat now world-wide and effective

The scientific world has long been conducting an effective war on fat. A major cause of excess fat has been found in a defective gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. When that gland is under-active, too much food goes to fat. The modern method of treatment aims to correct that deficiency.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for over 20 years—millions of boxes of them. They have told the results to others—the loss in weight, the gain in health and vigor. Thus the use has grown and grown. In the past year alone it has doubled.

The results are seen in every circle. Slender figures are the rule now. Excess fat is nowhere near so common as it was.

Marmola, prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

until weight comes down to normal. Try this method which has brought such results to so many. You owe that to yourself if you are over-fat. Beauty and youth, health and vigor all demand it. Don't wait longer. Get Marmola now.

MARMOLA Prescription Tablets The Pleasant Way to Reduce

DISTEMPER REMEDY FOUND BY DOCTORS

Five Years of Investigation Leads to Finding Cause of Disease

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Under the auspices of the Medical Research Council of Great Britain, two investigators, Dr. P. P. Leisner and G. W. Dunkin, have completed a period of five years of experimentation with the indication that it is now going to be possible to conquer the disease, distemper in dogs.

They were not able to isolate a causative organism but they were able to get infectious material with which to develop distemper in animals.

The experiment showed that the disease is infective in its first phase of fever, even before the general symptoms appear; that the nasal discharges are uniformly infective at first, and that it is possible for the disease to be transferred from one animal to another through the air over very short distances.

Isolation of infected animals at the earliest possible stage would probably do much to stop the spread of the disease, whereas the crowding together of animals is responsible for its spread.

AGENT IS TINY ORGANISM

The infective agent is one of those tiny organisms too small to be seen with the microscope, filtrable through filters which will hold back visible bacteria.

The disease can be transferred from one animal to another by injecting the healthy animal with very minute amounts of blood or tissue taken from a diseased animal.

It was found that at the time the acute stage of the disease the spleens of ferrets and later the spleens of dogs contained enough of the infecting agent to permit the making of a vaccine with which the non-infected animal could be inoculated against the disease. When animals were thus inoculated and permitted to develop resistance and later inoculated with the disease, they did not become ill.

In order to carry out the experiment on a large scale, 325 hounds belonging to fifteen different packs of hounds were treated with the vaccine. Other hounds of the same stock, running with those which had been immunized, were used as controls.

VACCINE EFFECTIVE

Since that time distemper has broken out on several occasions in the hounds, the hounds which had not been vaccinated against distemper becoming ill, but not one of those which had been vaccinated developed the disease.

The work may be credited as an other of the great discoveries of modern medicine, showing how the very animals which the anti-vivisectionists claim should not be used for experiments to prevent diseases in human beings, are themselves saved from one of the most threatening and fatal disorders of the animal experimentation.

RIFON IS BEATEN

Watertown — Northwestern college defeated Rifon here Saturday, 24 to 23. The score at the half was 14 to 14.

To Correct His Faults

Manager Lena Blackburne of the Chicago White Sox plans to spend much time at the training camp in a spring concerning fielding and batting faults of Chalmers Cessell, his $125,000 shortstop.

THIS HAS HAPPENED ASHTORETH ASHE, a stenographer from Boston, turns adventures on a tropical cruise. To be gin with, Ashtoreth took at trip for her health. Then, on ship-board, she met an Englishman named JACK SMYTHE, who made dangerous love. There was also, a lovely mysterious lady, named MONA DE MUSSET, who died aboard the boat. It was she who warned Ashtoreth against Smythe—and the love of men in general.

At Dominica, the loveliest island in the Indies, Ashtoreth encounters HOLLIS HART, her former employer, who has stopped there on a trip to South America. Becoming infatuated with the beauty of the place, he has taken a little house on the mountain.

Ashtoreth goes there with him and purposely misses her boat, when it sails away, in order to have an adventure with him. Hart is a very desirable bachelor. Rolling in millions and nice, besides. He christens her "Orchid" as his little, tender name for her. And treats her like a precious child.

A little piqued by his exceeding respect, Ashtoreth endeavors to have him make love to her. At the moment, she is wandering through the garden, dressed in her host's pajamas and dressing gown.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX

"I think," Hollis Hart told her grimly, "I'd murder him."

Ashtoreth shivered.

"Not really?" she cried and laughed a little, nervously.

"Yes, really," he assured her. "And that, my dear, is why a man like me should never marry a girl like you."

Her color mounted. She saw his eyes on her satin jacket. And gathered the dressing gown across her chest, clutching it with one hand.

"—I—I think," she said, "that my clothes are dry now. I'll go dress."

"I'll walk up with you," he offered.

She tripped on the root of a great tree that ran across the ground like a big gray snake. He caught her arm and held her for a moment against him.

"I am afraid," he said, "that I am beginning to love you—very much, Orchid."

She was silent, not knowing what to say. Fearful, perhaps, of spoiling the magic of the moment. She felt him tremble, as his arm closed across her shoulders.

"One more kiss," he begged. "One little kiss, and nothing more."

She raised her lips. And wondered if he was going to ask to marry her.

He left her on the gallery. And when she had gone to her room he called for a whisky and soda. After he had finished it he went to the garden. She could see him from her window, as she dressed, walking restlessly about.

"It has been a perfect peach," she told herself. "I wonder if this is the end."

The boat on its return trip was putting in next day. In the morning this, then, would be her last night in the little house on the mountain. Her last night under Hollis Hart's roof.

Very early in the day they would breakfast as usual together. Then the crowd would bring the horses around and they would slide down the mountain side to the little village that nestled at the foot of the hill.

As the ship moved out on the water, she would see the boat for the last time.

She wondered if he would go.

erently that she was profoundly touched. "Darling untouchableness" . . . well, it was a sweet thought.

"You say the nicest things," she approved. "I believe I'll miss another boat, so that you can go on saying them."

She darted a quick glance at him, to see the effect of her suggestion. If only he would urge her to stay! With a little more time—a little more starlight—a little more of being so maddeningly close to each other—then Ashtoreth believed she aboard with her. Or if he would leave her to face the women who had snubbed her and Mona so cruelly. Well, they'd have something to talk about now—those women! She'd spent a week with a man in a house on the top of the mountain. His house. She had gone there of her own free will. And stayed there. And now she'd flaunt her folly in their faces!

Ashtoreth sat on the side of her bed, with one foot in her hand. It was a huge mahogany bed, carved with little kneeling angels, with their wings folded. Hollis had told her there were many such beds on the island. They had been brought from England and France in the days of the island's prosperity. But now they were considered extremely old-fashioned. And iron beds were au fait.

There were two angels on either side of the head of the bed. In their pious hands they held the mosquito netting which enclosed the bed. At the foot were other angels, to whose heads the netting had been tacked. Ashtoreth thought of a little prayer she had learned when she was very small:

"There are four corners to my bed, Four angels round my head,— Matthew, Mark, Luke and John— God bless the bed that I lie on."

It made her think of Maizie, who had taught it to her. As Maizie herself said, "It's a small world, and you can't ever tell who you'll be bumping into."

Maybe Maizie would meet some of those wretched women who had snubbed her daughter. And so learn the scandalous episodes of Mona de Musset and Jack Smythe and the mysterious disappearance of Ashtoreth.

"Oh, dear," sighed the girl, "there's going to be a dreadful row some day. I know there is."

"Orchid! Oh, Orchid!"

Hollis was calling her.

"Coming!" she cried.

He had gathered an armful of butterfly orchids and was waiting for her in the garden. She noticed how gently he handled them and with what care he touched their tender petals.

"I shall never see another orchid," he said, "without being reminded, my dear, of you."

"There're beautiful," she answered, "but I don't know why they make you think of me, Hollis."

"Now you're looking for compliments," he told her. "But, seriously, every adjective that I should think of applying to an orchid I should apply also to your charming self."

Ashtoreth smiled self-consciously. "What are they?" she demanded.

He held the flowers off, and studied them with a fond on one side.

"Well, for one, I did you ever see such fastidious little ones in your life? Such exquisite perfection in their creations. So sweet and remote."

"Oh, my goodness!" she cried. "You're right! I don't see any more like me and I then I'm like a confidence on a perfect little violet. Or a pink sage for that matter."

"And you are?" he assured her gravely. "You are an Orchid-girl. A supreme orchid. I'll not have any demerit on my dear."

She blushed.

"You're a silly old darling," she told him.

He chose the most perfect Mossam from his armful and gave it to her. "Your darling untouchableness is like this flower," he said. "No browsing bee has touched its little heart. No cruel wind has raised its petals. It's a perfect little thing. A perfect little thing."

She looked at her nose in the glass. She wondered if he really meant it.

Hollis was looking at her so reverently

"The Firefighters"

From the time primitive man first began to build houses he has faced the danger of fire. As wood began to replace mud and clay in the building of early towns the danger of fire grew much greater. No regular municipal fire-fighting departments were organized, however, until the rise of the Roman Empire. Two thousand years ago, Rome had a drilled fire department of 7000 members.

Houses in the poorer quarters were entirely of wood, and each had a fire burning on an open altar, so that conflagrations were very easily started.

Since there were no fire alarm boxes, the Romans stationed watchmen, called Nocturnes, at regular intervals on all the streets of the city.

When a man's house caught fire, he would rush to the street and make for the nearest Nocturne. This official would call the news to the next Nocturne, a block or so off, who would pass the word to the next until the alarm reached the nearest Castra, or fire house. Then all the Nocturnes in the vicinity would rush to the fire and keep the crowds back until the fire company arrived.

WAUPACA COUNTY NEW LONDON-CLINTONVILLE-WAUPACA NEARBY TOWNS

AIRPORT FOR NEW LONDON IS DISCUSSED

Speaker Tells of Possibilities for City — Much Interest Aroused

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—New London is considering the financing of a civic airport. Should the spirit which has prevailed during the two recent meetings continue, little remains to oppose the establishing of a fully equipped airport with a locally owned plane and a licensed pilot to instruct those desirous of learning to fly.

Miss Lydia Kalishek of Milwaukee, appeared on Friday evening at the city hall, giving the second of a series of talks touching upon the importance and necessity of airports and details concerning construction and designing of planes for airport use.

Miss Kalishek quoted from statements of the department of commerce which forecast that within the next five years, licensed airports would be located at points only 50 miles distant from one another. She stated that meeting of similar nature had been held at Clintonville and other cities, where there is much interest in the plan of establishing air fields.

The airport would be established through the Wisconsin Civic Air service, a branch of which has been instrumental in the location of air fields at Sheboygan, Green Bay and Appleton. Among young men and women, the speaker said, are anxious to learn to fly, but cannot leave home to attend flying schools where training is also often prohibitive in price. The object of establishing local fields is to have air ports in every town, which own and operate their own planes.

The Wisconsin Civic Air service is non-military and is not connected with any branch of government service.

Through the establishment of an airport any town or community with fifteen or more paid memberships of $100 each will receive a charter entitling them to become members of a squadron and as such may elect its own officers and conduct its own business. An A or B or C class charter will be granted, the class being regulated by the number of members in the squadron.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritation. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Smaller Towns Apt To Lose Family Physicians

Madison — Are the smaller towns and villages of Wisconsin to lose their family physicians in the next few years? In a bulletin, J. G. Crownhart, secretary of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin, suggests that this may come to pass if the residents of these smaller communities take advantage of the hard times to "jump" their local physicians except for night calls and emergencies.

"With the coming of winter, we are again receiving scattered appeals for the services of a physician from some of the smaller communities of the state," says the Society's statement. "Every effort is made to fill these vacancies satisfactorily, but the event of good roads and the apportionment of the people to the various medical services in the larger towns and cities during the season of good roads, during which the physician is deprived of just about all income, and it is that which frequently makes the difference between a practice that will enable him to live in the small town or necessitate his moving elsewhere."

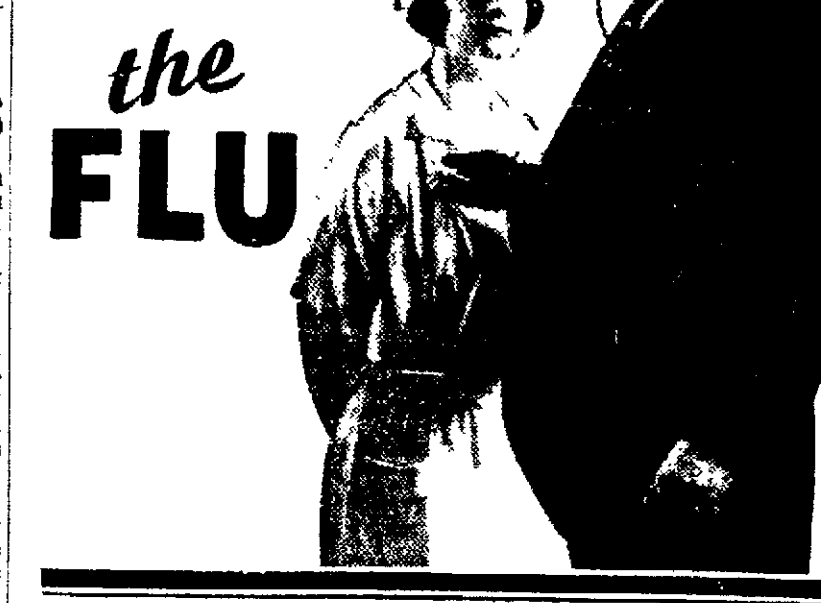

The Society statement recognizes that in many instances the smaller doctors no longer need their own physician and three or four such communities within a radius of a few miles, where good roads exist, may well have their service from one center.

"On the other hand," says the Society, "some communities that presumably have a sufficient territory to support a physician are leaving, or are about to lose their physicians. When the physician is gone and winter approaches, the people awake too late to find that they have deprived their own physician of an income that makes further stay possible."

"This statement is not issued to advise against the services of specialists or consultants, but to impress upon the public in the smaller communities that if they desire to keep their family physicians they must recognize them when the route is good as well as in the dead of winter. If reference to a specialist is indicated, it is your family physician that is best in position to tell you just what type of services are needed and best secure them for you at a cost within your means."

HONDURAS CITY TO GET AIRPORT BEFORE RAILROAD STATION

Tegucigalpa May Be Base for Route Between U. S. and South

Washington, D. C. — An airport may be built at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, before its inhabitants hear the whistle of a railroad engine. It is reported that the Honduran capital will be made a base on an air route between the United States and Central American Republics.

"Tegucigalpa, which lies in the hills of Honduras, due south of Chicago, is one of those cities which, though somewhat isolated, keeps travel writers revising their notes," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

REPLACE OXCART

"Slightly more than a decade ago a correspondent of The Society describing his visit to Tegucigalpa wrote, 'From Amapala (a port on the Pacific coast of Honduras) a launch is taken to San Lorenzo where necessary mules should be arranged for in advance since they have to come from a town some miles away. If a light pack is all the traveler has, it can be taken with him on a mule; otherwise it is better and cheaper to send heavy baggage forward by oxcart. Tegucigalpa should be reached in three days.'

"While the same route now is taken by the traveler who approaches it from the Pacific coast, the three days' trip has been cut to but a few hours. Three hours after boarding a boat at Amapala the traveler arrives at San Lorenzo and is comfortably seated in an automobile for the trip over the Honduran hills to the capital, 61 miles inland. The mules and oxcarts still plod the highway but truck and automobile traffic is replacing this antiquated mode of transportation.

"Tegucigalpa, means 'Silver Hill,' silver and gold mined in the neighborhood brought the city into the spotlight many times during the past two centuries. Between 1778 and 1820 $200,000,000 worth of these precious metals was produced. Intermittent political trouble threatened the city's growth from time to time but between disturbances it prospered.

"Today Tegucigalpa has 39,000 inhabitants, who are noted for their hospitality. Commenting on his visit to the Honduran capital during his South American flight, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh wrote: 'For two days I visited with the friendly people of Tegucigalpa and it was with regret that I took the air on January 5.....'

"The city, nestling among the fertile Honduras hills, basks in the tropical sun. No railroad yards or ship docks are there to disturb the eardrums of the natives but the noise of the market place furnishes excellent amenity. Here the rural folk attempt suppersalemanship by word of mouth and wild gestures, while the city folk, Latins that they are, wait for an opening to drive home a bargain.

"Most of the buildings in the capital are but one story, forming monotonous rows along narrow cobbled streets. Now and then the streets open into parks but the real beauty spots of the city are to be found in the countryyards which many of the houses surround. A peep into some of them reveals artistically laid out gardens and walks, forming colorful frames for splashing fountains.

"Modern buildings, rising above the old, tiled, house-tops are appearing but the outstanding structure is the Casa Presidencia, the Honduran 'White House.' It is a magnificent stone building of two stories with a fortresslike wall nearly surrounding it.

"While the airplane reached Tegucigalpa before the steam engine, railroads are pushing their way from the Atlantic coast inland toward the city. Nearly one-third of the trip from Puerto Cortes on the Atlantic coast to Tegucigalpa now may be made by railroad which connects with a good highway."

What He Needs Is More Pounds of Real Man Power

That's what one solid he-man said about a skinny young fellow the other day.

This anemic, rundown fellow had somehow or other lost his manliness and didn't know where to find it.

Probably he had never heard of McCoy's Tablets and the whole-some good they are doing to just such fellows as he.

It's a tonic tablet is McCoy's and a mighty good one—it must be for thousands of doctors are prescribing the very same formula to bring back vigor, strength and energy to weak, rundown, pale, thin men and women.

And what thousands of physicians say is good ought to be good enough for any man, or woman who is just dragging themselves thru life without vigor, energy or the keen ambition they ought to have—especially when McCoy's can be secured at any drugstore at trifling cost.

Why not try McCoy's Tablets for 30 days—just take them faithfully and watch results — If you don't feel wonderfully improved in health after 30 days get your money back. 50 tablets, 60 cents. Schlitz Bros. or any drugstore in America.

MEETING PROPOSES 2ND RECREATION INSTITUTE

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, in a circular letter issued to rural school teachers, proposes another county recreation institute such as was held at the Outagamie Rural Normal school two years ago. Rural school teachers, attending these institutes learn methods of having children use their recreation time to the best advantage. Mr. Meating points out in his circular letter that he has sufficient funds to hold the institute and that if the response from the teachers is favorable he will go ahead with plans. Dr. E. B. Gordon of the state university would have charge of the institute which would be held sometime in March.

HANDLESS WATCH

Paris — A watch face without hands has been designed in France. The figures denoting the hour appear in an opening on a revolving dial; the dial carries an arrow which points to the minute marks.

In 1906 Santos-Dumont, a Brazilian living in Paris, remained in the air 21 seconds flying a biplane of his own construction.

Charles Dickens wrote a "Life of Christ" specially for his children. Although the manuscript still exists, it has never been published.
